

Messages 'Hot OFF the Wire'

“Hot off the press” is a term meaning 'news-flash' or 'news-of-the-moment'.

“Hot off the wire” is a similar term meaning 'a message just received from transmission'. It has its origins in the old telegraph system when a Morse code message was translated and given to the addressee.

Church messages in the church system today are usually theological or of pop-Christian culture, and as a consequence, the saints are drying up because their thirst for spiritual knowledge is not being met. Putting it another way: they are starving because they are not receiving the bread of life¹ which is the rhema from Heaven.

Morris Ruddick puts it this way:

*“Too many have been seduced by a prevailing consensus drawn from circles of pop-Christian culture reflecting weak foundations. We are at a threshold in which we need something more, that only God can provide. We need ears to hear and eyes to see God’s wisdom for the hour which is hot off the wire, directly from His throne room.”*²

There is too much clutter from modern church culture that prevents the saints from moving forward and actually maturing in the Kingdom. When we don't progress, we go around in circles and get in a rut that we can't seem to get out of.

*“Today there is a shout calling for the inordinate requirement to get out of the ruts and reach for those higher dimensions, the “something more”, that only God can provide. Compounding this challenge to our spiritual perceptions is a world attempting to redefine reality”.*³

Revelatory teaching – that which is “hot off the wire” – is required to 'feed' believers and provide them with the impetus to grow-up.

*Rising above the clutter of these factors will then become the foundation for releasing the true authority from on high required for the agendas that lie before us. It is not a religious or a head thing. It is learning to walk more deeply with Him, to rise above the clutter and set our course by Him, as His ambassadors, and to take the actions needed to be demonstrators of His reality. We need to be cleansed at the highest levels from the clutter and the warmed-over religious confusion and be reaching for both the anointing and wisdom that is “hot off the wire”.*⁴

The teaching that I provide is “hot off the wire”. I only teach what has just been revealed to me unless there is a need to cover a matter of sound doctrine that a situation necessitates.

With that in mind, for my teaching to become rhema, there is a need to read and reread the documentation until it is seated in your spirit. This is required so you grow and develop as Kingdom citizens and as Kingdom sons.
