

Tough Decisions to Make

Not only have I come out of the church system and detoxified over the past 3 years to remove every skerrick of religion and legalism, but as I only follow the lead of my Liege (King Jesus) I find myself making more unpopular decisions. Over that past 12 months I have made some tough decisions, which I had been told to make by the Spirit, which others have not agreed with:

1. I broke connection with any 'ministry' or person who would draw me back into the church system.
2. I connected with like-minded Kingdom people.
3. I now focus on 'teaching the few' – those who genuinely want the impartation of Kingdom and spiritual knowledge.
4. I ceased sending emails to many people in the Canberra region inviting them to meetings and event – they are not interested.
5. I ceased sending notification emails to those who had connected with us but have broken off – they are no longer interested.
6. I now focus on my street and local community.
7. I ceased organising to meet in Canberra homes (outside of current Community members) unless we were personally invited.
8. I reduced my FaceBook friends from 47 to 7.

Now I will have to make more unpopular decisions as I received this statement in a prophetic word that was given to me on the 23-10-2016:

“You are going to make the right choices that to other people do not make sense, but you are not going to be led by the mind, you're going to be led by the eye of My Spirit clearing the fog of uncertainty and bringing you forward even this day to new territory.”

I am ready to make more difficult decisions. Be prepared for them as they will probably affect you.
