

Prepare For The Winds Of Change

Nita Johnson

Dedicated To The Church

This is the expanded message given by the angelic messengers, hence much has been added.

To The Reader,
I have incorporated proverbs throughout this book, which represent a summation of thought which the Holy Spirit desires to bring to life in the various chapters. Please read them and pray over them until you understand their meaning in light of the context in which they are found.

Forward

At nine years of age, while I was playing in my backyard, I walked out of the natural right into the spiritual world. I found myself being escorted down a long, winding tunnel by a huge, magnificently beautiful angel right into the throne room of the Lord. When I entered this amazing room, I saw the Lord sitting on His throne to my right. I was instructed to walk over to His right side, He pointed to the wall, which was off to the right and slightly behind Him. I walked closer to it, and as I did, the wall became a window to the future. I moved toward the window until I could see clearly. It was as though I was looking down over a hill into a city, but instead of the city, it was the world in the process of the judgment of the last days!

From my earliest Christian days, I have been told by the Holy Spirit of the judgments coming upon the whole earth. I have always been faithful to share what I've been given. The following communications however, have been of a different sort.

I didn't ask the Lord of the experience I had at age nine; I was horrified by what I saw, nor have I asked Him for what has recently occurred. It is His compassion toward man that moves Him to send forth messages of warning unto the world when danger lurks ahead. For some reason, in His sovereignty, He chose to grant me these divine counters. He didn't grant them to exalt a person, but as a ministry to the Body of Christ and as a warning to the unbeliever.

Just as the Bible says:

And the Lord, the God of their fathers, sent to them persistently by His messengers, because He had compassion on His people and on His dwelling place: But they kept mocking the messengers of God, and despising His words, and scoffing at His prophets, till the wrath of the Lord rose against His people, till there was no remedy or healing. (II Chron. 36:15-16 Amp.)

I didn't ask to know these things, but I am called to share all that I've been showed with people everywhere. Some will believe it; some will not. Some that won't receive it through me will receive it through another. I'm sure that's why Jesus is so diverse in the way He sends messages to us. His desire is that as many as possible will hear and receive His urgent warnings.

In addition to His instructions to speak of things to come and to give understanding as to why the judgments are being sent, He has also revealed to me what we can do in some cases to prepare. That which is contained in this book was given by the instrumentality of divinely granted appearance, and everything I share is backed by careful study in the Word of God. It will prove to be sure.

There will be those who will not believe the Word through any source at this time. However, as they see the things described in this book begin to move into full swing, they will repent and turn to Jesus. In so doing, they may in the end be some of God's greatest heroes of faith. But the scripture does say that the Lord sent repeated warnings until the day came that there was no longer any remedy. That's where we are today. Although there is still a remedy for the individual, there is none left for the nations, including America.

Sixteen years ago, while I was sitting in my family room, the Lord gave me a vision. First, my mind went blank, and my eyes saw only dark. Then in a split second I saw out in front of me the United States Seal turning end over end. The closer it got, the larger it became until it was the size of a man; coming at a stand-still nearly two feet from me, it then disappeared. Next, I saw the corner of a Bible with a black leather cover on it. It looked as though someone was thumbing the corner of the pages in rapid succession. Just as before, it stayed a long distance from me, and as it came closer, it too grew equally as large. At about the same place, it stopped and disappeared, then a cross appeared. It too came from a great distance away and as it moved closer, and it grew exceedingly large. It stopped about two feet in front of me. Simultaneously, as a voice (that sounded like it was reverberating down a long tunnel) spoke the words, "Liberty through Christ Jesus." These same words appeared in an arch over the cross.

This was the message for America. I was subsequently led out to point the people of God back to Himself and inspire a hunger for Him, with the Holy Spirit bearing witness with signs and wonders following. This was, of course, in hopes of bringing America back to Jesus before it was too late. In addition, I have fasted long fasts by His direction for the healing of our nation.

Now in 1997, as I look back over the last decade. I see such erosion it's heartbreaking. For instance, fifteen years ago we wouldn't have heard a news reporter on the six o'clock news make a statement like, "I would hate to see them lose any ground for their cause. They have fought so hard." This statement was made just a few years ago by an anchormen in California after showing a film clip of a hundred or so homosexuals standing around singing.

What she didn't say was that those same people had violently broken into a private meeting, pushed people down, and overturned tables. People were physically hurt by their violence. She also failed to mention how they made obscene gestures, acted out homosexual movements toward one another while others continued in their violence. Nor did she include that it took the police force from two precincts to finally get them under control. All the viewers were allowed to see was the "seemingly" innocent people standing up for gay rights, while the media knowingly hid the fact of violence behind the scenes and openly applauded their movement.

While God loves people that are practicing homosexuality, He absolutely abhors the sin in which they are involved. His tolerance, if you will, has peaked out! Twenty years ago there was still enough of a puritanical base in this country that things of this nature wouldn't have been tolerated by the average citizen either. It's a symptom of a huge underlying cancer of immorality that is eroding this country's very foundation. We have jumped out of the spoon and into the hot grease. But, before it's over, as you will come to see in this reading, we will have jumped out of the frying pan and into the fire! The degradation of all morality will be so rampant that it would make today's average American shiver.

Consequently, God's message has changed. He is no longer offering liberty to that nation. He said, "Judgment is sure," and we have only five minutes to midnight, at which time His wrath will be poured out, Yet, He still offers liberty to all who will accept it and press into His bosom in purity through Christ Jesus.

As you read the words of this book, know that although the message is a sobering one, it is from God's heart. Receiving it in that manner, make your way to Him with all diligence, making the following scripture your daily motivation, that you might be kept safe.

God said to Israel:

Set your [minds and] hearts on all the words, which I command you this day, that you may command them to your children, that they may be watchful to do all the words of this law. For it is not an empty and worthless trifle to you; it is your very life (Deut. 32:46-47 Amp.)

This is not a commentary on the Book of Revelation. I am not attempting to teach on end time prophecy - nor am I desiring to write a message on the sensational. If one surveys these pages expecting any of the above, they will be terribly disappointed.

My only desire is to relate a message that I was given to communicate to the Body of Christ as well as to the unsaved. Humanity's need for the strength, wisdom and comfort from their Creator is greater now than at any other time in history. My prayer will be that in digesting this message, the reader will move with all diligence into Christ Jesus. Virtually take out all the stops, so to speak, and with a compelling urgency seek the Lord's face until you are abounding in His grace, reaching deeply into Him until Jesus lives in you in the fullness of His boundless might.

In short, "Prepare For The Winds of Change."

A Word On Prophecy

Peter exclaimed, "This is that," when beginning his famous discourse on the Day of Pentecost. He went on to say:

I will pour out My Spirit upon all mankind, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy (telling forth the divine counsels), your young men shall see visions (divinely granted appearances), and your old men shall dream dreams (Acts 2:16-17 Amp.)

What then is the purpose of this kind of demonstration? It is to provide prophecy, (the telling forth of the divine counsels). Further, Revelation 19:10 reads:

"For the substance (essence)of truth revealed by Jesus is the spirit of all prophecy [the vital breath, the inspiration of all inspired preaching and interpretation of the divine will and purpose, including both mine and yours]." (Amp.) (emphasis added)

In other words, when a manifestation of this nature is granted, it is in order that Jesus may reveal or further clarify truth and that in rendering a truth, He might give counsel.

Peter said in quoting Joel... "your young men shall see visions". Yet, we know of many cases when in fact, young men saw dreams - a good example is Joseph. Joel also indicated that old men shall dream dreams. Yet, the apostle John saw one of history's greatest visions when he was around 90 years old. Further, Peter promised both menservants and maidservants would prophesy - but Peter said nothing of mules. Yet, it was a mule God prophesied through in order to save Balaam's life. (Num.22:27-33) The point I'm attempting to make is that this exciting proclamation of Peter's concerning the last days ministry of the Holy Spirit is not making promises that Lord will use one in exclusion of another.

In both the Old and New Testaments, God has made Himself known to whomever He chose - whenever He chose. He hasn't changed that just for today. Open your hearts. Let the Holy Spirit lead you all into all truth as you read the pages of this message. Search the scriptures. Let them further testify to it's validity, then prayerfully meditate on all you read until you're convinced that all that Jesus wanted you to get on this has been given to you. You can do no more than that, and the Lord will honor you in your endeavor.

Regarding the experiences I will be sharing, the Lord did not intend for them to leave us without hope - quite the contrary. It's purpose is to give us direction which, when, obeyed, will turn potential tragedy into triumph. Throughout scripture, we find God's counsel has proven to be substantial, equitable, and warlike, for the cause of truth and capable of shielding all who will accept it.

Therefore, as you read the following words, set your minds to look for hope. Also search for the keys you can use to change your future and the future of those you love. Allow the Holy Spirit to pull you and stretch you into a depth of commitment not known before. Offer yourself to the Lord as a catalyst to spark change in those around you. Do something positive with what you gain from this. We need not be afraid. If we are living a holy life, we will live in divine protection regardless of what others experience. Jesus will in fact be closer to His church during the hour of darkness than He seems to be right now. So, let His peace rule your heart through trusting obedience in the days ahead.

When united, the Church is the most powerful single entity in the world. No one wants to see her reach her highest potential more than Jesus. May all therefore, burn with the desire to do our utmost for His absolute highest.
