

Timing, Timing, Timing

At our Kingdom Community gathering yesterday morning, Peter shared a word that our Kingdom life is all about training, hearing & timing.

Here are some testimonies from then that came up about timing – more often called ‘God moments’.

- One person thought she should send a prophetic message that she received via email to a friend of hers, not knowing why. The friend replied the next day with thanks because the emailed prophetic message had confirmed what the Lord had shown her when she was on the beach that morning.
- We delivered a load of firewood to a friend the previous week after I chainsawed firewood to the size to fit her fire box. The timber had been curing in our backyard for over 12 months and I felt prompted last week to cut it up for her and deliver it. Unbeknowns to us, when we delivered it she was desperate for firewood as the timber she had in her yard hadn’t been cut up by her family and it was getting too cold to be without a fire at night.
- That session I taught on ‘the eternal purpose of God’ which included reference to the book of Ephesians. Our guest speakers for the morning mentioned at the conclusion that they were going to study that same topic, and from Ephesians, that week at their bible study. I’m glad I presented the teaching when I was prompted.
- Another shared that he had met a young Chinese student from ANU at a local restaurant. He had had a discussion with her and she mentioned that she wanted to know more about Christianity. He brought this up at our gathering because our guest speakers at that time had a ministry to Chinese university students. They exchanged phone numbers so the Chinese girl could be connected to them.
- The other day, another person shared that he was able to share his testimony with a guest at a party recently. He didn’t feel like going to the party but the Spirit said to go. It was during his time there that the opportunity came to share his experiences of God which the other person told him made him “happy”.

Timing, timing, timing. It’s all about God’s timing. That’s one way we flow with his Spirit in the Kingdom.
