

Leadership Is The Key

Myles Munroe notes that leadership is the key to the preservation, growth, and change for all people, in all societies, in all nations. This doesn't happen by accident. Leadership is always deliberate, whether we know it or not, and whether we want it or not.

He writes:

“No matter what condition a society or nation finds itself in, it didn’t arrive there by accident. Someone led them there. Every person on earth is being guided, influenced, or manipulated by someone. Directly or indirectly, consciously or unconsciously, we are continually being led by those who are our “official” leaders, as well as those who have become our de facto leaders by their influence over us. That is why our current problems won’t be solved without a renewed emphasis on the foundational elements of positive and effective leadership. Countries, corporations, institutions, organizations, departments, and so forth will be effective and successful only insofar as their leaders are effective and successful. When leaders in all realms of life make a commitment to strengthen their leadership, they will enable their society to improve, survive, and progress.”¹

IMPORTANT: This is vital for all families. Men must take their god-given place of leadership and lead properly for the benefit of the whole family, not just themselves.

Laurence

17-2-2017

(www.CanberraForerunners.org)

COPYRIGHT

All quotes are copyrighted to authors cited.

This document is free to copy, republish and distribute, but only 'as is'. It is free to quote from at length.

All Canberra Forerunners' documents are licensed under

Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported License

¹ – Myles Munroe (2014) “The Power of Character in Leadership: How Values, Morals, Ethics, and Principles Affect Leaders” Whitaker House p:9