

My Beloved Nation

(transcript of message recorded on 11-4-2016)

On my walk this morning I was thinking about my mother-in-law's funeral next week and musing if I could prophecy at it. As a baby-boomer I was also considering the fact that this is the end of previous generation, those who went through the Great Depression and WWII, and what that will now mean. As I did so I received this download and recorded it on my smart phone.

“This is a significant day. It is a day of the changing of the guard. It's time for the next generation to 'rule' and to come out from under the shadow of their parents. It is significant because these next generations will rise up to be those who usher in my return. It is significant because I turn towards this nation [Australia] and turn my heart towards it, and lift it up. I have seen the nation's turmoil, I've seen the nation's squirmings, I've seen the nation crying out, and I will lift this nation up. I will do a great thing, I will not hold back. This is my beloved nation and I will move forward in this. I will not be hindered. I will not allow Îşlâm, I will not allow perversion to distract me from what I am doing. I cannot be distracted: I will not be distracted. I will move forward. I will move onwards and this nation will be beloved, my powerful nation. This is my decree¹.”

Laurence Smart
(www.CanberraForerunners.org)
11-4-2016

¹ – The King's decree, not mine.