

The Book of Revelation: 4-The Kingdom Perspective

Futurist Eschatology kept us waiting for Jesus to return to fix up the mess the world is in. In the meantime, while he hadn't returned, we wanted to die to get out of this dreadful world so we could go to Heaven where everything is perfect.

Preterist Eschatology showed us that most of the texts used to point to Revelation being the blueprint of the future had been fulfilled. This released us to take on board the reality of 'Kingdom now' and work with our King on his business to impact the world.

The Preterist view of End Times we looked at is called 'Partial Preterist'.

There is also the 'Full Preterist' view.

Check to next slide for a webpage to study on this view.

Full Preterist is considered by mainstream Christians to be outside their theology and church doctrine

REMINDER:

All the different views of Revelation we've looked at so far are based on an interpretation of scripture.

This means that without personal revelatory confirmation from our King what we believe may not be true.

Let's now look at what Mike Parsons calls a 'Happy Eschatology'.

This view adds the Kingdom to the Preterist's eschatology.

This view fits in with my experience and my revelatory knowledge.
