

How Personal Prophecies Help Confirm You're 'On the Right Track'

Our intimacy with the Trinity should be enough for us to know whether we've deviated off the path set for us or we're definitely travelling correctly as we should. Our communication from Heaven should let us know this. There's no question about that. That's because, in a good relationship, each one knows where they stand. As our heavenly spiritual partners are perfect, they'll let us know when we're not 'on the right track'.

The problem for us arises when Christians accuse us of not doing things God's way or of being a heretic – strong accusations actually. We should ignore these incriminations, but our mind and emotions will still taunt us if we're not firmly planted in the love and guidance of Father. The enemy uses these mental impeachments from fellow believers to accuse us that we're 'off' and that we should go back to the tried-&-true ways of religion and legalism. As we resist or fight off these accusations, a help for us can be to check what progress you've made by looking at past prophetic words which told us what you would do or who we would become.

Now this type of checking is fraught with danger as there are many, many prophetic words given from the soul and the mind by well-meaning Christians. What I'm referring to are prophetic words from prophets, or others, who have demonstrated from your experience to speak from the Throne, not from themselves.

I was prompted to do this very thing this morning, so here's my check-up.

(1) In 2004 Peter Kumar¹ gave me his first prophetic word. As I walked out the front to him, he exclaimed, "An Elijah. A John The Baptist." I didn't know what my King was wanting to tell me then, but I know now that these relate to me being a forerunner.² I started Canberra Forerunners as an education and training business for the Kingdom in 2013, once I knew what I was to do.

Prior to that, in about 2009, Jesus told me I was to be an Elijah, and asked if I was prepared to accept that after he told of the downside. I said, "Yes. After that he trained me to be a prophetic mouthpiece for him, which I do through CCOP³ and through prophetic teaching.

(2) In September 2010 (on 30-9-2010 actually), Peter Kumar gave me this word as part of a prophecy for me, while he was in Canberra:

"Time to raise an army like Gideon. Not just young people – our older generation – they are looking for you."

A fortnight prior to receiving this word, I had handed in my resignation from teaching at a local Christian school and resigned from full-time teaching at the end of that year. Unbeknown to me, this word that I was given later on, was to frame the rest of my remaining life in the natural. I thought nothing of it, when I received it, but I did wonder 'what on earth' it was about. I have never activated the word, but instead, I was taken on a journey of discovery, learning what it means to be a son who aligns with Heaven.

Today I know what 'Gideon army' means.

Our King has called his people to a big fight against our enemy. Many have said, "Yes". However, these will be whittled down to a very small percentage of 'professional' fighting sons. The others will disqualify themselves because they refused to be reprogrammed and retrained, and are not fully committed and haven't submitted to years of battle training. This small number is "the remnant" we've been told about.⁴ This remnant is not those who are left after the mythical Rapture. They are those who will do great deeds as they display the glory of sons and work with Heaven on The Restoration of All Things.

My job is to bring teaching, mentoring and feeding to those who volunteer in the Canberra region and leave the rest to His Majesty to sift out when the time comes.

(3) In October of 2013 during another visit to Canberra by Peter Kumar I was told by my King that Peter had a message for me that he couldn't get through to me himself. When I took Peter to the airport, I asked him if he was given a message for me. He said he had, but the Spirit told him to wait until it was time to give it to me. Over coffee, while waiting for him to board the plane, he gave me a list of things that Father wanted me to know. This was the 24-10-2013.

This next 2 years, Laurence, it's like for you, it's like God is going to bring you out of the 'woodwork'. It's not...I won't like to use the word 'hiding'.	I had been in the background during a 10-year period of coming under the mentoring of the Senior Pastor at a local fellowship at the time of this message. From the date of the message I began to grow in spiritual knowledge, especially about The Kingdom. It got to a point where what I was receiving at the fellowship group was not feeding me spiritually, so I started talking to others there about the Kingdom to open their eyes. After a mild altercation with the Senior Pastor regarding the teaching I was giving, my King told me it was time to leave. I left on 23-11-2012.
There will come a time, God's going to use you to... it's not a house church, but you'll have a model of the apostolic pattern where people are together as communities – sitting together; worshipping the Lord in reality; breaking of bread; sharing resources; caring for the orphan; caring for the widows.	On the 6/3/2014 I began running Kingdom Living meetings in our home, as a teaching portal for the Kingdom in our city. I had come out into my own, in a place of leadership and teaching which I had been in training for since I was 12 years old. Why did I take so long to start meetings? This was the point my King said he wasn't getting through to me. You see, I ran a house church in country NSW in the 1980's before we moved to Canberra. That experience showed me that people are trouble: They all have problems that they want you to solve and they suck the life out of you. I didn't want to do that again which is why I resisted the Spirit's prompting for 3 years before restarting meetings. This prophetic word from Peter was my last chance for me to comply, so I 'bit the bullet' and did so. We have been learning to be a Kingdom Community ever since.
Unusual favour among people who are looking for the real 'meat'. So, there are so many people who are...who are going to be tired of the flak, and they want to see real things happen.	My job is to speak into the lives of people who are hungry for real spiritual food. I know who they are when I start talking because they soak up what I say – not all the time, but quite often. In 2013, I started Canberra Forerunners as an education and training business to train followers of Jesus in the Kingdom and in sonship. All my 'meaty' teaching goes up on the website each week for anyone to 'feed' on. Many people connect with me and 'drop off' because, like Jesus, the messages I'm being given from our King is too hard for them to 'swallow'. I'm introduced to new listeners, on and off, but I stay the course because my job is to 'feed' people with spiritual 'food'.
You will develop a curriculum. Where, it will not be like a 'stiff' school, because from there there's	The teaching sessions and the Kingdom Living Community gatherings I developed and oversee through my business are close to this 20:80 ratio. The prime focus with these is passing on what we received from the Trinity which means there's lots of sharing and asking of questions. I only teach

maybe 20% of school kind of ministry, but 80% of freedom where people flow. So, I don't want to use the word 'academic' and 'non-academic' or 'academic' & 'practical'. These terms, they normally immediately bring a limitation.	for 1 hour in the 4½ -5 hours we're together. We still have a long way to go where everyone shares revelations so that our time together is fully focused on the King, rather than the Kingdom.
You've been asking God about all these Jewish things – How much do we step in? God wants me to say he will teach you, and you will understand the truth. Because you're a man who doesn't embrace everything people say.	This has been definitive. I just sat back and let him teach me. I didn't accept anything I was told in the Jewish line of Christian things, just watched and evaluated the fruit of each one and listened to the Spirit. This was an example of activating by alignment, rather than by doing. I now know that there's nothing Jewish that we need to be considering as important in Kingdom life. Also, there's nothing Jewish we need to do that's part of our New Covenant existence.
You will raise a group of people who will be militant...So it's not raising a passive group of people who say, "OK. Oh, I like this", or, "Let me see. I can try it out. I'll have to check it out."	This one was also one I had to let go of and wait till I was schooled. As I watched fundamentalist Müşlîmîş bring destruction and fundamentalist Left-wingers wreak havoc, I was reticent to step into being militant for the Kingdom. Having the attitude that we're in a spiritual war and being prepared to fight, and being 'sold out' for the purposes of heaven, I had to watch that I didn't go 'overboard' and so move out of alignment with Heaven. This very week, the principles behind this point are now clear (see below). Although, the details are yet to be given to me. Now that I know, I'm not jumping in, gung-ho. I'm moving forward circumspectly.

The information about Kingdom militancy is in another document:
 'What Does Militancy Look Like in the Kingdom'⁵

This is my most recent example of how leaving the church system has not led me astray. I'm sticking with the King and I keep telling myself: "It's all about him, not me". He keeps training me as I strongly desire to be taught and changed, and as I adamantly align with him.

Try it yourself. Check what you've been given in the past by trusted prophetic voices (or even your own prophetic journal) and see how you're 'stacking up' at present.

REMEMBER: Many things take a lifetime to be worked out because you have to be trained for it and the time has to be right for the Kingdom to release you. Don't be 'put off' by anything that hasn't transpired yet. Look for what has already come to pass.
