

Emotional Pain Not Dealt With is a Magnet to the Demonic

Wanda Alger had a dream where a seducing spirit come to her from a pastor, and stood beside her bed. It had a look in its eyes that seemed like it was giving her its undivided attention and admiration. It said to her, “Just say it! You know you want to”. She knew in the dream that it wanted her to say, “I love you”. It was drawing on a deep need she had to be recognized and cared for. She could see that the spirit was in a weakened condition and she knew that her devotion to it would strengthen it and empower its hold over her. Even though she knew it was wrong, in the dream she said, “I love you”, and repeated it. The seducing spirit eventually led her away, in the dream, to a dark place where she felt shame and remorse for what she had done. Declaring her allegiance to the spirit hadn’t brought the freedom she had hoped for. Instead, it put her in greater bondage and separated from the Lord.

When Wanda woke up, she understood that the dream was a prophetic message for believers to recognize that there are seducing spirits among them and to renounce their hold over their lives. She writes:

“The doctrines of demons are not just theological deceptions; they are counterfeit causes. Unmet needs, misplaced expectations and bitter wounds from our past are like magnets to the demonic realm. They feed on our bitterness, keeping us in the dark and separated from the power of the cross. Not only are victims vulnerable to these dark forces, but religious leaders are being manipulated and used by these seducing spirits to deceive and immobilize the saints.

This prophetic dream exposes those church leaders who are being influenced by seducing spirits and leading their flocks into bondage. They may sound spiritual and pious, but they are seeking a reputation among men instead of laying down their lives for the gospel. In hopes of gaining an audience, they are taking up social issues instead of taking up their cross. In hopes of becoming saviors to the disenfranchised, they are supporting the riots instead of praying for deliverance.

These counterfeit champions may appeal to our flesh, but they are destroying our faith. For those who are being drawn into this trap, it's time to recognize the demonic source and refuse to give it our attention and devotion.

This is a warning from heaven to stop following the seducing spirits among us. We must realize the power we give the enemy when we continually voice our pain. That devotion only serves the devil and will not bring about true justice. The pure message of the gospel is one of repentance, forgiveness and freedom through the cross.”<sup>1</sup>

Wanda’s interpretation is self-explanatory and sufficient.
