

Missed Knowledge Cycle Around Again

Father really wants us to receive the knowledge he brings to us and for us to inculcate it into our lives. Too often we miss what he's showing us, or saying to us, because our focus is not on the King and the Kingdom. Instead, it's on our busy, chaotic lives.

When our hearts are open to be retrained, and our focus is in the right place, we can identify what he's presenting to us in the circumstances of life and the downloads he deposits in our spirit. The nice thing is that if we miss it the first time, he will bring it to our attention again, later on. This is often from a different vantage point, because he really wants us to get it.

He's a loving Father, and our Beloved is just as loving towards us, so they both work to see us increase in knowledge and understanding. This is all part of our maturation process for our sonship.

Here's their encouragement to keep looking and listening so they don't have to repeat themselves.

*"Don't be in a hurry. Every moment of every day will produce opportunities to know yourself and to know Me better. When you rush through life, you are likely to miss some important details. Those details will come back around until you have gleaned the value and applied it to your life. Pay attention and be aware of what I am showing you."*¹

Repeating usually means we're going around in circles, not maturing as quickly as we ought to. Every piece of knowledge is essential to build on past knowledge. We can't miss anything in our spiritual schooling.
