

Testing Time

This is the testing time. The time to find out what's in you - for me to see what I've created in you to come forth (to come to the light). It's not in darkness (within) that you will shine, but in the light that my light shines through you. Clean yourself up for the road ahead is rough (difficult) and it requires you to flow with me. Darkness hinders this and doesn't allow you to reach your potential. Your potential is great. Yes, I repeat, your potential is great - very great. I placed it there and I don't make mistakes - I don't do things heart-hearted or for you to operate half-heartedly (with 1/2 your potential). Yes, you see your potential and that's great. I want you to see more. To do that, more darkness in you and 'flesh' has to be peeled off (back) so your light will shine brighter. Yield to me. Yield to my hand and my authority, as I take you through the process. You have been resisting lately, but it's time now to completely surrender to my hand so I can mold you into who you are to be - so your potential can be realised.

Yes, it is exciting, and yes, you're on the right track to get to where I want you to be. Just a little more tweaking and you'll be in your next phase. These phases go in jumps, in steps, so you can see what's happening. Don't be disillusioned in the 'dry' periods. Just keep hanging on to me, staying close to me, so I can take you through (draw you out) into what's ahead. And yes, it is glorious. You have chosen rightly to display my glory. It is my desire that this happens in you and through you. Yes, you will display your innate glory - my glory - to others. They will see my glory in you and want it too. Keep going my son, don't give up. Don't lag in zeal for what I'm doing and where I'm taking you.

Discern the people you mix with as they will dampen you as water dampens a candle wick so it won't light up and shed light. It is true; there are those who will swallow up your light in darkness so you can't shine. Avoid these. This is why you came out of xxx'. You were being stifled there and my work in you was curtailed. I am pleased you followed my advice (my lead) and came out into MY light so you could absorb what I was shedding on you like solar panels (photoelectric cells) absorb light and produce power. Bask in my glory. Absorb my light and glory so that it is reflected through you. You have your innate glory that I placed in you at your creation, but it needs my glory to activate it. That glory is great and I want to shed it onto you so you are activated (enlivened) to display glory. Oh, how I wish others would want to display my glory. Don't let that go to your head - keep calm and humble as I do great things in you.

Yes, your dad rejected you, but I haven't. You are not a 'black sheep'. You are my favoured son and I want to see you succeed in all my plans for you. Don't let the past hold you back. Don't let it draw you back or else it will dampen and even eliminate the light that will shine from you.

Have courage - courage in me - so you move forward. I want to move you forward more rapidly these days as there is much for you to do and you need to be prepared for it. Great works will come from your hands. Keep your eyes on me, not on your circumstances so those things can transpire that I have planned for you. Great plans. Oh yes, great and mighty plans.

Gently deal with others, as I'm gently dealing with you. This is my desire for you - gentleness with great authority. My Son worked like this and as you say, he's your prototype. Follow him - follow his example and let me work through you. You've been doing this to a limited extent and it has been great to watch you. But there is more that I want you to become, more that I want you to do for me.

My Kingdom is coming on the Earth through my Son and through his bride.

These are exciting times. Enjoy the ride. We are a great team together. I love you and respect you, my son. Receive my blessing and honour for you.

Love, Dad.
