

Waiting is a Good Thing to do

Waiting is a good thing to do. I have much to say to you - much you have to learn. These concern the days ahead and what is to come.

I have chosen you to be my instrument, my precision instrument for the days ahead. You have submitted to me and now I am about to use you - use you in great ways as I have alluded to you.

Yes, you've had to wait and you have waited well, but there is more waiting to do. More waiting on me and more waiting for specific times, places and doors to open. Yes, doors will open as you've asked. You have asked well.

I am proud of you (pleased with you). You are willing to change - be molded and shaped, and for this I am also pleased. Pleased, because we can work together hand-in-hand. I like the way you put your hand in mine each day as we travel along together. I'm your daddy and that's the way I like it - you trusting me completely and knowing I have only the best for you, even in difficult times. There are difficult times ahead - very difficult - and these will require this child-like faith to be evident in you and practised by you.

You see, I have to do what I have planned - this is the way I work. I know you understand this, but others don't. This is why I'm using you to train others - to teach them my ways. You are doing a good job with this and I am pleased with you. Don't lose heart with the hard-heartedness and seeming imperviousness of those you train. Just keep giving them the 'food' I place in you...

[personal information about others removed from here for their privacy]

You are on the right track to enter your destiny. You are travelling well. You are making much progress. Don't be disheartened by your lack of advancement - it will come. It will come in my time, when you are ready and when others are ready...

[personal information about others removed from here for their privacy]

Yes, and yes, these are dangerous, precarious times and you are right to be constantly seeking me as to what you are to do and say, and where to go.

Regarding SOP<sup>1</sup> - remain connected, there is much to learn from Bob<sup>2</sup>. He is my servant and I have taught him much that you'll need for the future and for the prophets you'll train and raise up. This is amazing to you, I know, but it's my call on your life.

You are living in the overflow of blessing from your father and grandfather. This is not unusual, and the overflow will continue down your [family] line for those who connect with me. It will be a crescendo as you so rightly described it last night...

[personal information about others removed from here for their privacy]

Be courageous yourself, like a lion - have the courage of a lion. A lion is fearless, i.e. it knows no fear. Fear doesn't enter into their mind as they go about life's business. Be like that - be fearless. Don't let fear enter in as it will nullify my work in you and through you...

[personal information about others removed from here for their privacy]

These are important days for you to be clinging to me and seeing my salvation of your nation as you cry out to me for her. She is in the balance currently and could teeter either way. Keep interceding for her as I show you. Keep pressing into the promises I have shown you for her. It is important.

I bless you today my son with a father's blessing. Receive it and prosper.

Your Dad.

Laurence
26-9-2013
(www.CanberraForerunners.org)

COPYRIGHT
This document is free to copy, republish and distribute, but only 'as is'. It is free to quote from at length.
All Canberra Forerunners' documents are licensed under Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivs 3.0 Unported License

1 - Robert Misst's 'School Of Prophets' which I was attending in Canberra to be trained
2 - Robert Misst