

"How?" is Critical

So, moving right along.

It's good you've come to the understanding through Jose and the article on how, why and what. It's given me the opportunity to work this through with you. I'm pleased with this progress. So now, let's put it into motion. "How?", that's the question you must now ask yourself and therefore consult me. We are counselling together now, so this progression in the way you are to do things is just that - the next step. It should flow easily with you as you've taken to counselling like 'a duck to water' - as you would say.

Here's 'the drum'. I'm getting you ready for big things, but I'm aware that you could falter and that could lead to you giving up because you're failing to succeed. I want to pre-empt that disaster by giving you this key of 'how'. This is an apostolic way of thinking, as you have discovered, but it's not just theory - it's the way I want you to operate.

Keep encouraging [the younger men you are mentoring]¹. These are my precious ones and I have given them into your hands. Love them tenderly and affectionately as they are 'damaged' men and need your fathering to stabilize them and bring them to a place of sure-footing where they are able to stand for themselves. Train them to handle difficulties and hardship, as they will encounter these in the future, as well as the present. Love them with your whole heart. Give yourself to them. Don't hold back. You won't do a complete job unless you do it this way.

Be encouraged. I love what you are doing. Become more stable - more operation out of the Seat of Rest and less striving and submission to doubt.

You are loved, my beloved. Know that. Know it deep inside you as the enemy will try to reef you out of my hands and it's your response that determines if he's successful or not.

Grow up into what I have for you. Let the changes and developments 'fit you like a glove' so it's obvious that it's meant to be. Don't resist me. We are "joined at the hip"², so that means you move with me, not the other way around.

Love you, my son.
