

Operating In Dominion

Recently one of our Community<sup>1</sup> members was shown by Father that he needed to start using an electronic calendar to bring both his work and his private life into order. Previously, it had been his habit to just be flexible and flow with situations and circumstances as they arose, dealing with them as he saw fit or as the Spirit guided him. He was shown, on this occasion, to cease living like that, with Father revealing how he should restructure his life. Father said, in regard to using a calendar to set time aside for events and to stick firmly to those appointments: “That’s operating in dominion”.

We know that Adam was created to have dominion, but we’ve been taught by Bible teachers that we don’t. We also ignored Bible statements about “ruling and reigning”, putting them off to sometime in the so called ‘Millennial Reign’. Or, maybe, it will happen somehow in the new Heaven and the new Earth that will be recreated. Such has been our misguided ideas of our lives as a Christian.

Now that we understand that we are sons, living in the Kingdom of Heaven on the Earth, we are savvy enough to comprehend that we already have dominion, and that means we should be ruling and reigning as princes (young kings) of the Kingdom right now.

What Father showed us through our brother’s reprogramming is this: Administrating<sup>2</sup> our situations and circumstances, so that we deal with them calmly and with purpose, is operating in dominion. In that regard, stress, confusion, anxiousness, and impatience are not ways of operating in dominion, neither is looking for an easy way out or a ‘quick fix’.

So, after allowing the Spirit to give me more understanding as I meditated in my spirit on this new revelation, here’s what we need to know about dominion for sons today.

Operating in dominion occurs when we start living powerfully in our status as a king like this:

- Taking full responsibility for ourself and our actions by owning them.<sup>3</sup>
- Being responsible to the King because we’re accountable to him.
- Bringing our mind and our soul under subjection to our spirit so our spirit becomes the dominant component of our being.
- Not living with any fear whatsoever.
- Not submitting to any dread in regard to handling any circumstance.
- Administrating every situation and circumstance.
- Drawing from the wisdom, knowledge, understanding and discernment of Heaven.
- Choosing not to follow our conscience which has been developed by our life’s training and which operates through fear.<sup>4</sup>
- Choosing to operate by the voice of the King.<sup>5</sup>
- Setting appropriate goals and planning for the future.
- Not surrendering to the enemy
- Not giving the enemy any ‘ground’ to operate in.
- Dealing with our ‘baggage’ (our pain, hurt, bad attitudes, unrighteous propensities, etc.) ourselves.
- Not letting anything control us.

- Not letting anyone control us.
- Choosing to submit to proper oversight and human supervision, but monitoring their control of us.
- Setting appropriate boundaries and sticking to them.
- Not changing our mind whimsically or because of the pressure put on us by others.
- Not drifting through each day, but organising and managing each one properly.

If we don't monitor ourselves, control ourselves, if we're disorganised or we drift through life, then we're not operating in dominion as a son should be able to do. Thinking before we act or speak, and making appropriate plans, are examples of working in dominion in our personal kingdom. Being lazy, bludging off others, or deciding to be supported by the government when we can support ourselves, is not operating in dominion.

That may seem very simplistic, or it may need more explanation, but let me put it this way: Kings rule their domain, they operate in dominion. If we apply the set of points in the last paragraph to a successful and wise monarch it is obvious that they are not appropriate for the successful running of their country. For example, how successful is a king who is lazy, doesn't make good plans and who just drifts through life?

Kings set goals and work towards them for the good of the nation and for their own prosperity. I remember mentoring some young apostolic men some years ago and asking them to set goals for the year ahead. I thought at that time that it wasn't very spiritual to do that, even though I was directed by the Spirit to ask them to do it. From our new revelation of dominion, setting goals was getting them to operate in their kingship by taking dominion over their life in the ensuing year.

Of course, we're kings under the oversight of a supreme ruler (or if you like, princes under King Jesus), so submitting to him in every area and doing things in line with him, doesn't negate our responsibility to operate in dominion. As an explanation, think of regional kings under the rulership of an emperor in an empire. Submission to the emperor doesn't negate the rulership of the kings to manage their kingdoms so they prosper in their regal duties.

By 'the same token', being Spirit-led doesn't negate our responsibilities to operate as a king and fulfil our duties in life. Remember, we are part spirit and part physical, so we live in the spirit realm and the natural realm at the same time – we can't ignore the reality of either of these.

See the difference in all this, compared with the pulpit teaching we've received on how to live our lives?

See how getting away from biblical terminology and theology permits us to see and hear clearly about spiritual realities?

To move ahead with our kingship, we also need this bit of extra guidance. To start with, the first place a son has to learn to take dominion over is their personal domain – i.e. themselves. Then, to control the chaos of the enemy around them, they need to have dominion over their private domain, which consists of their home, family and property. Until these are controlled and administrated at a reasonable level, the person's domain cannot be extended because they can't be trusted with bigger responsibilities. That may seem a strange thing to say about how the Trinity works with us because we perceive them as very forgiving and gracious. However, out of love for us, they protect us by not releasing us into areas we aren't trained for and are unable to cope with.

Here's more information to help you develop the way you operate in dominion. These directives have been released to us for years now, but have we seen them as training in becoming a king?

“When you encounter a problem that is beyond your control or not a quick fix, take a deep breath and refuse to get stressed out. Impatience will not help, so settle yourself to do nothing until there is actually something that you can do. And come into My presence to find that place of peace that is available to you as you abide in Me.”<sup>6</sup>

“Refuse to allow frustration to derail your efforts. Do your best to stay calm and be methodical in your process. Trust Me to give you the wisdom you need to accomplish all that is before you. Quiet your soul and do not be afraid.”<sup>7</sup>

“Do what you can to establish and maintain spiritual and emotional balance. It is imperative that you stay strong and steady especially when faced with uncertainty and upheaval. I will give you wisdom in accommodating change. You will once again find a sense of normal but not without effort and putting your trust in Me.”<sup>8</sup>

“You will have opportunities to re-evaluate areas of your life that need adjusting. The temptation will come to throw everything out the window and just start over, but that may not be the best course of action. Not everything needs change, so you must not overreact and do more than is required. I will give you the wisdom you need to do the right thing.”<sup>9</sup>

Once we start thinking like a king and managing our domain (our personal kingdom – our king domain), we’ll start making progress towards who we really are and Heaven will be able to impact Earth through us in a greater way.

IMPORTANT: This revelation is only the beginning of understanding our kingship. We must allow ourselves to be trained in our royal status so we’re prepared for promotion. It would be catastrophic, at this point, to make the decision to step out in faith beyond what we’ve been shown so far. That would be acting in foolishness, because of presumption, and that would open the gate for the enemy to gain access to our personal kingdom.

MORE REVELATION: I decided to ask Father directly for more information on ‘dominion’ for today because I realised it’s the teaching we need to prepare us to operate as kings. This is something we’ve never received teaching on before. I’ve recorded the download on my prophetic webpage.<sup>10</sup>
