

Wholeness is a Gift to You

We always want to struggle with our issues or we just ignore them. Many believers even wallow in their pain and hurt. This should never be.

It was never Father's intention for us to live damaged in the 'fallen' world following The Fall. He has always been there to bring healing to our souls so we can live life completely whole – without defect. This isn't very clear for those who use the OT as a benchmark for lives. It's clear if the NT is read properly. True, most charismatics and pentecostals are agreeable to being healed of sickness and disease, but from my observation, they don't believe that healing relates to their 'baggage'.

Sons are meant to be whole in every respect. This is our birthright and something we should be focusing on every day. It's only when we shut out the voice of the enemy, and reject what he does to us to bring all forms of chaos, that we can see the 'tree in the midst of the forest'.

Many believers go for counselling sessions with pastors, ministers and psychologists to get their lives free of issues. What they fail to realise is that Father wants to work with them to bring wholeness in every area of their lives. Here's his statement to that effect:

“When you feel pain, anger, hurt, or any negative emotions, lean in to me and bring that pain with you. Don't dismiss your reactions to life's uncomfortable moments. Together, we will get to the root of what's triggering you so you can find freedom from its crippling effects. I am the God of wholeness—mind, body, and soul. Your emotions, feelings, and thoughts are important to me, and I want them to be important to you too. They can alert you to areas of pain and trauma that need my healing power. Draw near to me and discover what I want to heal inside of you. I want to give you life in its fullness. Ours is a journey of joy, and wholeness is my gift to you.”¹

What Father has outlined has been my experience for many years. For some time now I've been working on “no fear”, “no rejection”, “no disappointments”, “no regrets”² and “no irritation”, as I have been directed by the Spirit. At the moment I'm working on not submitting to dread³. I've made great progress with these and peace has increased greatly in my life. Concomitantly, when I don't actively resist, and I entertain negativity in my mind, I lose my peace again.

I always monitor my peace. As soon as I notice it waning, I check to see where I've 'slipped up'. When it's an external issue, I go into the King, in my Internal Kingdom, and let him deal with any issues. Then I shut down any submission to the possibility of failure in that thing.

Any son can do what I've been doing, because Father is right there wanting to supervise us through all our pain and hurt. He wants to make wholeness a gift that all sons take up and run with.

It's very important that we get whole.⁴
