

It's too Late to Dilly-Dally

There's something I want to pass on to you today - [it's] a message. This message is critical, so hear me clearly.

I don't want you to walk in the counsel of the ungodly or follow their ways. You have been set aside for specific holy purposes and you must walk in that holiness. I have overlooked much of your errant ways in the past, but it is time to deliberately sanctify yourself to the tasks I have [ahead] for you. These will require complete alignment with me and obedience to align with each instruction.

It is too late to dilly-dally; to use up time; to waste it on yourself - even for 'good' reasons and motives.

You have been chosen for a big (huge) task and the time is here for it to be initiated and enacted. It will require you to be compliant and complicit in what I have planned. No more dallying around. Hear me well. It's time, so put aside your own plans and spend time with me in council on my plans...

~ This important section moved to part B ~

...Be attuned to me, my son. Listen to me. Be still in your soul and listen with your spirit. Let your spirit continue to rise up. You are a son of the King; a son of the Most High God. Walk in that. Operate out of that.

You will do well.

(Words in brackets are what I understood in my spirit immediately I was given something to write)

(Words in square brackets are to convey the sense of the sentence as I received it)
