

Assistance is Available for the Changes We're Required to Make

The Trinity is interested in our desire for change. They are ready to give the assistance required, but the onus is all on us to make changes. We must know that's our responsibility, deep down in our 'knower'. We can't fob off the responsibility to change, because it's ours by birth.

Once we were born in our human bodies we became responsible for ourselves. This can't be overruled, because we humans were given autonomy as imagers (image-bearers of Father), which included ruling ourselves. Then, once we come into the Kingdom, we must really understand that no one else can be responsible for our person. We can't be ignorant of this responsibility any longer.

Our task is to change, so we properly represent our King/Father to the world around us. That's a big ask, but it all starts with our decision to do it and our surrender to the processes that are required. Change has to become our desire – nothing can happen until it does. Changing will require personal sacrifice, which is “carrying our cross”, a painful, self-killing activity.

When we do wholeheartedly desire to change, assistance is provided for us and we can absolutely rely on Heaven's support. If our change processes are carried out through our intimate relationship with the Trinity, it's much easier than doing it religiously or from our own strength. The Spirit will highlight what needs to be changed and it will only be done one-thing-at-a-time. On top of that, living out of the Internal Kingdom will see the Spirit work on us from the inside out, as well. This is the most effective way to see personal change happen.

To encourage us in this difficult process, here's a message from our King to support our desire for change:

*“Bring me your listening heart, and I will bring you the life and change you long for. This season of change will move you from passivity into passion. The fire of my love will motivate you to make sacrifices of time and treasure such as you have never entered into before. I am moving upon your heart to yield to me, to go where I send you, and to do what I called you to do. Follow me even at great personal cost, and you will see me as the great Promise Keeper.”*¹

Here's an instruction about seeing things the right way so we can change:

*“Take advantage of every opportunity to be particularly sensitive to My Spirit and to your environment. You can only do this if you get away from self-centeredness and see things from an objective point of view. Objectivity requires that you look at facts or the reality of any situation without emotional investment or selfish motivation. Let Me help you see through eyes of the Spirit.”*²

There's no other way than 'hard yakka' to change so we can properly represent our Creator. We carry so much 'baggage' from our life in the world, from the time we were born, that we're an enormous corruption of who we need to be as a son and imager.
