

Live Like You've Been Set Free

We've been set free. We know that. So why do we stay in bondage so we can't be free?

We have liberty and freedom in the Kingdom and we have the freedom of much-loved sons. Why then do we bring ourselves under bondage and get shackled everyday to things that we've been freed from? It makes no sense!

Actually, it does make sense when we think about it, because we haven't been taught to live in our freedom. Instead we've been taught that freedom is licentiousness, an activity that's not right for "followers of Jesus".

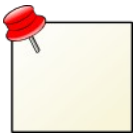

We need to be reprogrammed so we can quickly and easily identify the bondages of religion, legalism, sin, and the world's various systems. Remember, anything that brings fear, brings bondage and takes away our freedom as sons.¹

Reprogramming is required to see freedom from Father's perspective. To him, it's very important. We can't fulfil our destiny or rise up to operate in our sonship as kings if we aren't entirely free. The sense of freedom is what allows us to step out in faith, without thinking fearfully of some religious or legalistic rule we're breaking. More importantly, we can't be free to be the planet managers we were created to be if we're tied down by some restriction.

Here's an admonition to live free:

*"You have been set free. You must allow that freedom to be not only your goal but your guideline. The price was paid with blood on the Cross of Calvary. There is no greater sacrifice than that and no greater expression of love. Refuse to live beneath your privilege and potential."*²

So, live like you've been set free and your life will take on a much better perspective.

NOTE: Freedom doesn't mean licentiousness³ or lawlessness⁴. Being Spirit-led, living in intimacy with Father, adhering to the Law of Love, placing yourself under apostolic oversight, being accountable to each other, training from our King, being taught Kingdom living principles in community, and many others, are all things that keep us in check while we're FREE.
