

We Are One

My son, it's good to be with you again this morning. I've been wanting to share something with you for some time. Watch how you treat people.

Cease being so gruff. It's good to be apostolic, but gruffness does not convey who I am to those around you. Love and gentleness must always surface in every situation. Be kind and loving to everyone and watch your attitudes. These attitudes will lead you astray into the enemy's territory and away from me.

I am the blueprint, the template that you model yourself on. Don't read into the gospel accounts of my words how I spoke them. You will always get it wrong if you try to mimic me. Read my spoken words, but let me show you how I presented them.

Stick close to me as the enemy wants to sift you to see 'what you are made of'. I have made you strong in your weakness, but the supply of that strength is in me and my presence in you.

Don't look back. Don't dwell in the past. This is a new day, a new season of advancement in my Kingdom. Listen to me and listen carefully - always carefully. Sometimes you only half hear me. This is dangerous and will cause you grief in the future.

Stick close to me. Closer than a brother, closer than a lover or your wife. We are one. Yes, we are one. You have entered that phase of oneness that you desired and it has been my pleasure to induct you into it. I don't share myself intimately in this way with everyone, so be encouraged. On the other hand, it comes with more responsibility. You now have to represent me more accurately to everyone because I can't use you to spread the concept of oneness to others if they don't see the difference between themselves and you.

Cheer up. All is not lost. I have much for you to do and many plans for the future. Yes, there are many years ahead of you, so stop thinking about sickness and disease. You are free of them, so pick up your tools and get to work. More focus on my Kingdom assignments, and less on yourself.

Enjoy the day. I have given it to you to prosper in. Use it well.

Laurence
