

Change is Essential, Don't Resist it

This is an important time, a time of change for you and for others. Those in your care are changing too, so treat them carefully as they will be fragile until they get a firm foothold on their new self.

These changes are essential for what is coming to you. Those who don't change now will have difficulty later and will not fit into the new environment. Change is essential. Yes, change, change, and more changes are on the horizon.

Don't resist change. Flow with it as the ebb and flow of the Kingdom requires continual adjustment. In the spirit change is easy, but in the natural - well you know how difficult and stressful that is.

My son, look to me. Keep your eyes on me so that the changes - the metamorphosis - that you are going through will be a seamless transition. Only I can take you where you are going and who you will become. No one else can do it for you.

Please mark this indelibly in your heart and mind as there will be a strong pull to resist the changes. Some of these [changes] are not nice and will cause you to resist - don't resist. You will not see the whole picture until you're well into the changes, so the step-by-step alterations will sometimes seem illogical.

Mark each milestone in your heart so you don't lose your tenacity to move forward. Draw others with you and help them see the pluses in their lives with each major change.

Change, change, change and more change. I can't tell you loudly and clearly enough that changes in and around you must be handled judiciously and with fervour. You must want to change because you need to change.

Yes, the days ahead are dark, but the 'silver lining' is who you will become in those days. Allow me to make the changes so my glory can be manifested in you to the world.

This is not the end - there's more to come. 'Steel' yourself for what's ahead and see to it that you acknowledge me in all things and at all times and to all people.

Love you son.
