

Loving the Things of the World Negates Complete Oneness

As difficult as it may be to hear that loving the world keeps us from being fully in oneness with Father, it's a spiritual reality we can't overturn. The upshot, of course, is that we must make the effort if we want all that can be ours in oneness. Here's what Father told Kriston Couchey about it and more:

"Many embrace concepts of biblical truth but have not embraced my perspective, which includes my judgment. I am simply looking for those who have abandoned their own lives and certainties and have chosen to receive Me as a child. It is in that child-like abandonment to my love and judgments that I will manifest Myself to them, in them and through them."

"The Son did not love the things of the world, and even though He left all judgment to Me, His perspective was the same as Mine and His judgments would also have been correct. Many form judgments that are not correct because they love the things of the world."

"You cannot walk in oneness with Me if you love the things of the world. If you love the things of the world then my love is not perfected in you and the oneness we should be sharing is limited to simple moments of visitation."

"The place of visitation has always been a path to the doorway of oneness; it has been a courtship of sorts. I have prepared and revealed Myself to you in this secret place through dreams, visions and angelic messengers sent to encourage, correct, and discipline you. But I want you to see that all of this has simply been to point you to Me, for knowing Me has always been the goal of this journey."

"You have come to know my heart and purposes as I have prepared you to be one with Me in a union of love. Dreams, visions, and angelic assistance are not going away; you have simply come to the place where you must now live from the place of intimacy and knowing me within you. You must walk with the mind of Christ; knowing my will, heart, and thoughts in every situation because your will, heart, and thoughts are one with Mine."

"When I sent my Son into the world, He walked in complete oneness with me; so much so that He said, 'If you have seen Me, you have seen the Father'. Everyone who truly believes in Me has the same potential or power to become One with Me just as the Son is one with Me. Those who are led by my Spirit just as Jesus was led by Me will manifest Me to the world just as Jesus did, for those who are led by my Spirit truly are my sons. In this place of oneness, the fullness of the great 'I AM' dwells in you; Father, Son and Holy Spirit.'" ¹

If we stop thinking of the biblical imperative to deny ourselves, we'll stop resisting Father drawing us to himself. Instead, we need to think of the benefits of being fully in oneness with him and that'll allow the process to become much easier. Our human nature gravitates towards what benefits us, so that's the tack we should take to restrict our independence and rebellion which holds us back from complete surrender.

How much oneness we enter into is all up to us.
