6-Should I Attend a Prayer Event to Influence the Federal Election?

(This is a mentoring article)

Short Answer

The short answer to your question is: "You can, if you want to".

Long Answer

Now here's the long answer, with explanation and advice.

As a human being, Father has given you the autonomy to make your own decisions. Right or wrong decisions are your responsibility, and Father won't interfere in your choices. However, his desire for sons, is that you make decisions that are righteous,[1] rather than unrighteous. But there's a sticking point there, in that statement, because you may be so used to thinking religiously that you approach everything from the perspective of good and evil. Unfortunately, that's a choice based on The Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil, not The Tree of Life, the one Father is wanting you to draw from.

So, to make choices that are righteous, it's important that you realise that 'righteous' means 'what's right in Father's sight',[2] not what you think is righteous. Therefore, you need to look at every situation and circumstance, and then ask Father what you should do to make sure you're operating righteously. However, that's not the end of it. As you have autonomy to make your own decisions, Father is expecting you (as a son) to know his heart and to function out of what he's said to you and what he's taught you. That means you are to make decisions based on what you know Father is desiring, and unfortunately, that can change from instance to instance, so you can't pin down standard operating procedures. You see, What might be right in one situation in time, may require a different response in a similar situation later on.

All the understanding you need to make decisions is based on your intimacy and oneness with Father, and also your intention to operate in alignment with him. Those two are the sources of the protocols and functional awareness that are essential for you to be able to do what Father is desiring you to do.

Deprogramming from religion and legalism is another essential step for you, so that you're able to make the right decisions. You see, the 'Word of God' is not the contents of the Bible,[3] translated and interpreted by theologians, bible teachers and preachers, it's everything that Father has said, is saying and will say. For you, it's what he's been saying to you through his Spirit, which is why we follow the lead of the Spirit, not the ideas of people. This is why it's critical for you to develop the ability to hear clearly with your spirit so you can absolutely know what Father is asking you or advising you to do when you make decisions.[4] Unless the mindsets and doctrines of religion are eliminated from your heart and mind, you'll find it extremely difficult to hear with your spirit or to accept what the Spirit is saying.

Finally, as a son, Father is expecting you to grow and develop in your spirituality and sonship so that you become more mature – maturity makes decision making so much easier. Unless you mature, you'll make decisions out of your immaturity, ones which will often fall short of Father's expectations. In the Kingdom, religious things are immature, because they are derived from human minds, not from Father. That's why Paul wrote that observing Jewish seasons, festivals, feasts and special occasions, is immature.[5]

What Does All That Mean?

To make this quite clear, it's up to you to make this prayer event decision in line with what Father wants, rather that what's right in your own eyes. That means you'll need to listen more to what Father is saying to you and even start asking him questions so he can give you the answers you need.

However, if you don't make this decision out of Father's instructions to you by his Spirit, he won't condemn, judge or discipline you, if you make it with a clear conscience. (Actually, he won't even do those things if you don't make them from a clear conscience – that's his unconditional love in action towards you.)

All that is what Father is expecting from you in a general sense.

Another Question

Before going into any further detail, you need to answer this question: Why would you want to go to a prayer event for the upcoming Federal election?

The answer is important, because, as a son, your attitudes are critical. Straightforwardly speaking, your attitudes need to be more in line with Father's attitudes, not your own.

So, are you wanting to attend a prayer event for any of the following reasons:

- To Force 'God'[6] to do what you want?
- To see your favourite political party govern Australia?
- To see 'God's' will done in the election?
- To see Australia become more of a Christian country?
- To see Australian society exhibit more Christian values?

Be honest in answering this second question. How you approach any decisions will depend on your attitude, so make sure they're more in alignment with Father's desires than anything else.

What on Father's Mind?

I've asked Father a number of questions in relation to the Federal election on 3rd May 2025, as well as the previous one, among other things. His reply provides you with ample information to assess his mind on what you should be doing about the election, which will impact any decision to attend a prayer event.

Here's the relevant points from what he's told me, as these will advise you in the decision you are wanting to make:

SOURCE #1[7]

1. More than any other main reason, the spiritual atmosphere of Australia depends on how many citizens align with Father.[8]

5 – Galatians 4:9-11 (NKJV) "how is it that you turn again to the weak and beggarly elements, to which you desire again to be in bondage? You observe days and months and seasons and years. I am afraid for you, lest I have labored for you in vain." [See Expanded Bible also]

6 – 'God': I use this term in inverted commas because 'God' is the generic term people use, while I don't any more. I have an intimate relationship with the members of the Trinity, so I refer to each of them by name, out of relationship. From my oneness with them, I collectively refer to them as The Trinity.

8 – CCOP MESSAGE: "Spiritual Balance in Australia" (17-5-2023)

2. How you live your life, how you speak, what you do, and your heart, all those things have a bearing on Australia's spiritual atmosphere.
3. How you operate should be in alignment with Father – as far as it's possible – that's the only way you're going to see Australia change.[9]
4. Methods that Christians have devised to change Australia will not work, unless they align with the realities of the Kingdom.
5. Father is not going to tell you how to vote. As his vice-regent on Earth, you have that responsibility.
6. Father's input is more relevant than instructions found in the 1st Century writings of the NT.
7. Father's aim for this election is the installation of leaders who are in alignment with him.
8. In reality, no elected leader will be fully in line with Father.
9. Your aim to change Australia through the election is to see elected those who will work for the people, for the best interests of Australia, and who will have some support for the Kingdom.
10. Vote as best you can for candidates who are definitely focused on the prosperity of the nation.[10]
11. To know how to operate during and before the election, you need to be very conversant with Father, with his Kingdom, and with his heart and mind.
12. Your duty is to speak to those who you connect with and advise them of the need to vote in alignment with Father, as well as the necessity to hear from him. That's the only way Australia can move forward and advance the Kingdom so that the nation prospers his way.

SOURCE #2[11]

13. You need to have Father's mind to work effectively with him as an Australian citizen.
14. Your intimate relationship with Father will allow you to 'absorb' his mind through cardiognosis[12].
15. Deconstruction and deprogramming from what you've learnt in the past, which has become your mindset, needs to be rebuilt so that it's capable of thinking on the things Father wants to impart to you.
16. Your human mindsets are detrimental to the expansion of the Kingdom in Australia.
17. Your societal mindsets are going to interfere with the way you approach this election.
18. Lay down your personal mindsets and ask Father to select those that you need to keep. Ask him to work with you to eliminate those that are antagonistic to your role as a son of the Kingdom.[13]

Conclusion

Whether you attend a prayer event, as a son, is up to you. It's not wrong to do that if you wish, but consider whether it's what Father would have you do – he'll always have better and more relevant things for you to engage in, than you're aware of.

His advice on this coming election (as well as in past elections[14]) is what you definitely need, rather than any religious plans that you may have.

Very Important

Here are three very important points for you to consider when making your decision whether to attend an election prayer event or a prayer event:

1. The Kingdom is not equivalent to Christianity.

2. The model for how sons should operate is the life of Jesus of Nazareth, not any Christian model, and that includes how we are to impact elections. In a message, our King instructed us to see him as our prototype[15] and to model our lives after his – not his Kingdom tasks or his destiny, but the way he operated as the first Spirit-filled person. In that regard, you should think what he would do if he had the opportunity to live in a democracy and vote for national leaders. He never ever did that, but his lifestyle was only doing what he saw Father doing and only doing what Father told him, so that would be your starting point. How he functioned in his daily life, and what he did, was all an outworking of his intimate relationship (i.e. oneness) with Father. He was totally connected to him and received communication from him via the Spirit on a constant basis, so he didn't have to constantly have prayer times or to organise prayer events for his team of followers to impact their nation.

3. Our King has been shaking everything that can be shaken in Australia,[16] as well as in every other nation. He's been doing it for many years for the purpose of unstabilizing the world systems and exposing those things which aren't of his Kingdom. With that in mind, Don't expect changes in our nation's leadership which are exactly what you desire. Even praying and fasting for what you want will be to no avail in the long term. Our citizens must see what's really going on, how 'bad' things are for our nation and it's people, because only when they've exhausted their method of improving their lot will they be amenable to hearing about what the King has planned for Australia. It's essential that you consider whether what you would be praying for will go against the King's plans to shake up Australia and expose the 'rot'.
