- “Nuclear a ‘long term’ and ‘reliable solution’ to Australia’s energy needs”
“Page Research Centre CEO Gerard Holland says nuclear is seen as a “long-term, reliable, resilient and secure solution” to Australia’s energy make-up needs. Mr Holland says regional people see the jobs that “reliable continuous 80-yearlong assets such as nuclear reactors will provide”. “They’re not hoodwinked by the fear-mongering around the dangers,” he said. ”

- “Australia’s Fertility Rate Hits 90 Year Low”
“Australia’s fertility rate has hit a low of 1.50 babies per woman, according to latest Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) data. It is the lowest birthrate in the last 90 years of available demographic data, with teenage women having less children. The country saw a peak in fertility in 1961, with a rate of 3.5. But, overall, despite some movement up and down, Australian fertility rates have continued on a downward spiral since 1971.”

- “What the Voice victory means for Australia and the threat of misinformation”
“At CPAC 2024, Institute of Public Affairs Deputy Executive Director, Daniel Wild, delivered an impassioned speech about the importance of the defeat of the Voice to Parliament referendum, which showed that mainstream Australians did not want their country divided by race. Daniel also spoke of the grave danger of proposed misinformation laws, set to be debated in federal parliament before the end of the year, as well as the need to speak up for Australia and hold the elites to account for their divisive and destructive agenda.”
