- ★ “Top Globalists Confess Plan to Conquer and Enslave the World”
“Alex Jones breaks down videos of David Rockefeller and Klaus Schwab planning to conquer the world as the clips highlight why he’s been trying to warn humanity of the eugenicist agenda for decades.”

- ★ “The Psychology of Fear and How Fear Is Weaponized Globally to Control Populations”
“When you are afraid, you’ll take any train that’s leaving the station, even if it’s not going where you want to go.” In this episode, I sit down with Gavin de Becker, author of the 1997 bestseller “The Gift of Fear” and one of America’s leading security experts. He’s a three-time presidential appointee, and among his security firm’s clientele are people like Amazon founder Jeff Bezos. “When it is true fear, we get adrenaline, for example—that’s the famous hormone. The less famous hormone is the brain chemical cortisol. And cortisol prepares the body for combat. It sends blood to the arms and the legs, it hardens the muscles, and it causes the blood to clot more quickly in case I’m stabbed or opened up in some way. And that’s a great, wonderful resource to have. The problem is it’s toxic,” Mr. de Becker says.”

- “The One Globalist Lie Destroying Our Food System”
“An insect, according to the United Nations, might actually be your future dinner. Right now, globally, meat-related agriculture is being vilified for causing too much climate change, using too much land, using up too much water, and so on. And so, as a part of the “green agenda” to fix these so-called problems, policies are being implemented across the world that are effectively handcuffing farmers, and sometimes even completely crippling their operations. If all of these meat farmers are put out of business in order to “save the planet,” what exactly are we going to eat? Where are people going to get their protein from?”

- “Creation of BRICS Currency to Rival US Dollar Is ‘Inevitable,’ Analysts Say”
“The possible establishment of a currency to rival the U.S. dollar won’t be discussed at the 15th summit of the BRICS countries that begins in Johannesburg on Aug. 22, South African government officials have told The Epoch Times. However, this week’s meeting will herald the first step toward the establishment of a gold-backed BRICS currency designed to end what the bloc terms “U.S. dominance of global finance structures,” according to some analysts. BRICS members are Brazil, Russia, India, China, and South Africa. The bloc was set up in 2009 to represent the interests of major emerging market economies.”

- “Men are lost. Here’s a map out of the wilderness”
“Once my curiosity was piqued, I could see a bit of curdling in some of the men around me, too. They struggled to relate to women. They didn’t have enough friends. They lacked long-term goals. Some guys — including ones I once knew — just quietly disappeared, subsumed into video games and porn or sucked into the alt-right and the web of misogynistic communities known as the “manosphere”.”

- “Resources Are Actually Becoming More Abundant, Not Less—Here's Why”
““We buy things with money, but we really pay for them with our time. And so, that says that there's really two prices: there's the money price, but there's also a time price. Money prices are expressed in dollars and cents, but time prices are expressed in hours and minutes.” Gale Pooley is a former professor of business management at Brigham Young University in Hawaii, and the co-author of “Superabundance: The Story of Population Growth, Innovation, and Human Flourishing on an Infinitely Bountiful Planet.”
“The economic underlying numbers of our fundamental basic commodities ... that really give us these kinds of lives that we enjoy—those are all becoming much, much more abundant,” says Mr. Pooley... We discuss the flow of resources, wealth as a form of knowledge, and what Mr. Pooley calls the “original sins of economics.” “The first original sin is that we conflated, or we equated, resources with atoms,” says Mr. Pooley.”

- “YouTube to Censor Content Contradicting WHO Guidelines”
“YouTube has introduced a new “medical misinformation policy” that will censor any medical or health-related content that doesn't align with claims made by the World Health Organization (WHO).”

- “How NewsGuard Became the Establishment Guard Against Independent Media”
“As difficult as it is to run an independent media outlet, there’s a company making it substantially harder. Its name is NewsGuard. The company claims to rate online content, including from media outlets, for trustworthiness, but a closer look shows it does much more than that—its business model produces censorious pressure on news organizations. An investigation by The Epoch Times has revealed troubling questions regarding the quality of and the agenda behind NewsGuard's offerings.”

- “The Dark Side of the Fertility Industry”

“Life is imperfect. We all have flaws, maybe physically, mentally, emotionally, or all of the above. It is what makes us human. There is a growing trend in the medical community, specifically the fertility industry, that is seeking to eliminate those flaws before people are born. Parents are making genetic choices about their children, designing them to be a certain way, which has led to the elimination of the unborn that don’t match up to the desired standards. The “prospective” children have “health scores” while they’re developing in utero. And this is what some are using to determine which embryo to choose. Not only does the fertility industry have this troubling trend going on, but it has worrying connections to communist China. Because of legal loopholes, essentially, China has developed a “rent-a-womb” industry that pipelines children born of surrogates in the United States to “purchasing parents” in China. The problem: it is completely unregulated and untracked. Here to speak with us about this is Emma Waters, a research associate for the Richard and Helen DeVos Center for Life, Religion, and Family at The Heritage Foundation. Her work focuses on marriage and family, the life issue, and assisted reproductive technology policy.”

“The Australian government says the World Health Organisation’s (WHO) new global health treaty will not override the country’s sovereignty. Also known as the Pandemic Instrument or the WHO CA+, the pandemic preparedness treaty has faced scrutiny around the world due to the wording of its draft, which would make the Treaty binding on all signatories.”

- “While Pushing ‘Centralized Digital Currency’ Here’s What Global Elites Are Really Doing”

“Right now, in terms of the future of money, it seems like the messaging from the the mainstream media, the elites gathered at the World Economic Forum, and central banks across the world, is that Central Bank Digital Currencies (CBDC) will soon replace the cash in our pockets. And, of course, despite this being painted as a great convenience to the average person... in reality, having everyone on a central bank digital currency would allow the federal government to control our lives like never before. In theory, governments could make the money expire, so you would have to use it before a certain date. They could make the money unusable in certain industries, such as, for instance, the gun industry. And also, if the technology develops further, they could tie the digital money to some other type of profile that you have in the system — sort of like what they do in China with their “social credit” scores.”

- “Should We Fear Worldcoin?”

“The Worldcoin Foundation is trying to solve the problem of PoP², but some critics aren’t buying it. Worldcoin was founded in 2019 by Sam Altman, the CEO of OpenAI, whose stated mission is to “create safe AGI [artificial general intelligence] that benefits all humanity.” Worldcoin’s objectives include “establish[ing] universal access to the global economy,” “becom[ing] the world’s largest human identity and financial network,” and “establishing a place for all of us to benefit in the age of AI.””

- “The US Electrical Grid: Achilles Heel of the World?”

“On this episode of International Reporters Roundtable, we look at the U.S. electrical grid. It’s the largest machine in the world. One pitfall of cheap, abundant energy is that we can’t live without it. Less developed nations might fare a lot better in a grid-down scenario, but according to the Department of Homeland Security, 90 percent of the U.S. population could die within a year of total grid collapse... Some U.S. power companies buy transformers—the backbone of the electric grid—from China. In 2020, we took one apart and found a back door: malware giving the Chinese Communist Party power to turn off our lights. The power grid is America’s life support system. But lack of resilience, insufficient maintenance, and outdated standards make our grid the Achilles heel of the world. If the U.S. economy goes down, it drags the world down with it.”
