- ★ “UN’s Landmark Decision: Children’s Right to Sue Over Climate”

“The United Nations has recently made a significant announcement that could have far-reaching implications in the fight against climate change. The UN’s Committee on the Rights of the Child, a body that interprets international human rights law, has issued a 20-page document recognizing the rights of children to take legal action against governments regarding climate change issues. While this announcement doesn’t carry the force of law, it holds notable significance due to its basis in one of the most widely accepted international treaties.”

“In public health, we follow a similarly important business model. We call it ‘Disease-X’ (the UN’s jargon term)<sup>2</sup>.”

- “The 100-Day Vaccine Profit Model and New ‘Disease X’ Pandemic Preparedness Plans”

“In this episode of “ATL:NOW,” we’re joined by Dr. David Bell, a public health physician, former World Health Organization (WHO) officer and scientist, and a senior scholar with the Brownstone Institute. “We have this huge industry being set up to surveil for variants. And the model that they are pushing for public health is that they will find variants. They will lock people down. They will mandate or allow them to have a vaccine to get their freedom back. And then the vaccine will make a vast profit. And then the cycle will go around, they’ll find another variant. And this is a future that is sort of mapped out,” Dr. Bell argues. “It’ll be very hard to get out of once we have things like central bank digital currency or programmable currency where, if you don’t get the vaccine, they could stop you buying groceries. And we’ve seen this sort of thing already in Canada. It’s talked about by the Bank of International Settlements. These aren’t conspiracy theories.””

- “Hiding People From Truth Does Not Protect Them—Academic Institutions, DEI Bureaucracies, and Ideological Capture”

“Peter Boghossian is a former professor of philosophy and co-author of the Sokal Squared hoax papers. These were intentionally false and absurd intellectual papers that were accepted as legitimate in ostensibly prestigious academic journals. In 2021, Boghossian resigned from Portland State University. “In DEI [diversity, equity, and inclusion] bureaucracies, we have extraordinarily intolerant people. We have ideologues. They have a set, or a suite of propositions that they forward to the expense of all else,” says Boghossian. “You can either have free speech at a university or you can have DEI bureaucracies. It is literally impossible to have both.” Today, Boghossian, a champion of the Socratic method, goes around the world, teaching people how to speak across divides and to harness their humility and ability to ask the right questions. “We know where this problem comes from. It’s the academic institutions,” says Boghossian. “The places from which you graduated are not the same places today.” We speak about what he calls a “large-scale ideological capture” of institutions, and debate what the best path is moving forward toward genuine diversity of thought and expression.”

- “Exposing the Secret Rebranding of ESG”

“One of the titans of the new world vanguard is in its death throes. This is ESG—environmental and social governance. It’s the gun being held to the head of big corporations, forcing them to adopt environmental and social policies that often go against both profits and the interests of consumers. The system works heavily through investment firms, which use their control of money to award or punish companies based on how well they align with the new world globalist agenda. But that agenda is reaching the end of the road.”

- “Living Without Seatbelts: Daring and Caution Are Friends, Not Enemies”

“[I]s America now a seatbelt culture, metaphorically speaking? Have we become a people who are always testing the winds for trouble, looking before we leap, not with our eyes alone but with a microscope? For more than 2,000 years, prudence has ranked high among the virtues. Careful management of our affairs is the mark of the wise. The man who sets aside money for a rainy day, the mom who reprimands her kindergartener for his tree-climbing antics, the defensive driver—all are behaving prudently.”

- “The Positive Feedback Loop: How Totalitarians Instill Fear and Restrict Human Rights”

“Totalitarians describe a world dominated by positive feedback loops, where the slightest perturbation to a system expands unchecked and leads to instability and chaos... Totalitarians, who exploit and manipulate the physical and social sciences to restrict personal freedom and human rights, promote subjective science which is convenient to their needs and unbalanced. Protective negative feedback loops are ubiquitous in nature and force systems towards stability and equilibrium but are ignored or marginalized in order to engender a sense of futility and fear in the general population. The ensuing desperation leads to political choices based on emotional and imperfect information and results in unanticipated excesses, persecution, and tyranny.”

- “How to Have a Financially Efficient Household”

“Good finance practices translate to how you run your household. It goes beyond just paying off your credit card and saving money. You’re happier and more prosperous when financially efficient in all aspects of your life. But how do you create a financially efficient home and lifestyle? Taking the first steps can help weather inflationary times. But even when economic times are good, a financially efficient household can help you prosper.”

- ★ “Disinformation’ Warfare: A New Weapon of Mass Destruction”

“In this comprehensive two-part interview, we discuss how the concept of “disinformation” became a tool of deception, in which technocratic officials manufacture consensus and wage a “counterinsurgency”-style war on truth that has, according to Mr. Siegel, deranged our public discourse. “Whatever you think of Donald Trump, it’s not democratic, by any stretch of the imagination, to lead a bureaucratic, ruling-class coup against a legitimately elected president. That may be many things, but democracy it is not,” says Mr. Siegel.”

- ★ “The Danger of Intellectual Laziness: How Albert Speer Became a Nazi”

“‘Inside the Third Reich,’ the lengthy 1969 memoirs of Hitler’s cabinet minister Albert Speer (1905–1981), makes for very interesting reading. As the Minister of Armaments and War Production who used foreigners and prisoners of war for slave labour to sustain Germany's war efforts, Speer was a member of Hitler's "inner circle" for more than a decade. After World War II ended, he was convicted of war crimes and crimes against humanity at the Nuremberg trials in 1946. Speer managed to persuade five of eight British, French, American, and Soviet judges that he was largely unaware of the persecution and mass-murder of Jews, thereby avoiding the death penalty. Instead, he received a 20-year prison sentence. "

- "Star's Children's Book Fighting Back Against Attacks on Traditional Masculinity"

"The former star of a Hercules TV series wants to teach boys to be manly again with his first children's book that encourages them to reclaim their societal role. Actor, writer, and producer Kevin Sorbo told The Epoch Times that his new book, "The Test of Lionhood," just released by conservative children's book publisher Brave Books, rejects the "woke" culture's attack on masculinity. "There's a confused generation of men out there because of what Hollywood's doing with their movies, and TV shows, and magazines," Mr. Sorbo said. The cultural disdain for masculinity dominated recent Hollywood movies, he said."

- "Can AI Replace Teachers as Bill Gates Argues"

"Microsoft co-founder Bill Gates says artificial intelligence (AI) is as good as human tutors. Here are some reasons why he is wrong. Mr. Gates believes that AI can change education for the better, stating at the ASU+GSV Summit in San Diego that "AIs will get to that ability, to be as good a tutor as any human ever could."

- ★ "The Agenda to Fuse Our Digital and Biological Identities Is 'Absolutely Terrifying'"

"The European Union is pushing for central bank digital currencies and digital IDs. They're calling for this system to be rolled out globally by 2030. There are growing concerns that digital currencies, combined with digital IDs, will create a system of digital tyranny similar to that of the Chinese Communist Party's social credit system. Every citizen is given a score, and your freedom, or lack of freedom, is determined by how closely you align with the ruling regime. Not only that, the cooperation of state and corporate power that's being used to bring this system into place is part of a broader push for what Klaus Schwab, head of the World Economic Forum, is advocating for—the fusion of our digital and our biological identities."

- "Divided We Fall Ill (The epidemic of loneliness)"

"The epidemic of loneliness is a mass killer comparable to smoking. There is only one cure—people. Traditional cultures were built in part on an understanding of interdependence. They recognized the plain and obvious truth: We need each other. Fewer people believe that today. We have lost the sense that we depend on each other for our safety and prosperity. Maybe that's why we are so lonely."
