- ★ “‘Ecocide’ Agenda Could See Farmers Criminally Charged”
“Farmers could be labeled as being guilty of ‘ecocide,’ and could face criminal prosecution for the acts of farming. This was among the more controversial positions expressed by a participant at the 2024 World Economic Forum in Davos, but it ties into an existing debate around the world on ‘personhood’ status. Already, there is a growing movement to grant human rights to plants, animals, rivers, and even artificial intelligence. And this is raising concerns over what it means for the value of human life if everything is treated on the same value as a human life.”

- EDITORIAL: “Climate Expert Refutes Alarmist Disinformation”
“To find out what’s really going on in 2024, I talked to Ronald Stein, whom I’ve known since 2017, when I was hired as then-state Sen. John Moorlach’s press secretary. Mr. Stein gave our staff a lot of great information on energy policy. He’s an engineer, energy policy adviser for the Heartland Institute, the author of “Clean Energy Exploitation” and other books, and the frequent source for articles and interviews in this newspaper.”

East coast Australians have been shocked to find the hot, dry, bushfire-ridden summer they were expecting has been drowned out by destructive tropical cyclones and widespread flooding. Meteorologist Matthew Cappucci predicts the wet weather that has dominated the start to summer will continue until the end of January.”
