- “Global carbon emissions will reach record levels this year”
“Global carbon emissions from fossil fuels will reach a record high this year after the COVID-19 pandemic, with no sign of the deep reductions urgently needed to tackle global heating. Preliminary data for 2022 shows a slight increase – about 1 per cent – in carbon emissions from fossil fuels relative to 2021, according to the Global Carbon Project, a network of dozens of researchers from around the world that has tracked carbon emissions for 16 years.”

- “NASA cloud seeding” [US government efforts to control the weather]
“It lays the predict in the foundation for the development of a weather satellite. That will permit man to determine the world's cloud layer and ultimately to control the weather, and he who controls the weather will control the world. Project sirs. Is the first official attempt to modify a hurricane...”

“Can the government actually cause deadly droughts and floods? Why does it seem like the weather is getting more strange and threatening? What if there was proof that the government has weaponized the weather against us? Joining me today is Dane Wigington from Geoengineering Watch to discuss all this and more.”
