

Convey Hope and Love

There's so much of our life in the world that we need to remove from our lives as sons so we can operate without corruption. We've been in the world system and in our society for so long that its processes, habits, attitudes, and many other things which determine how we operate, have become part of who we are. These are not appropriate for sons, as they keep us from functioning with Father's heart and mind.

It's pleasing that Holy Spirit continues to point out those things which we need to get rid of out of our lives because we're usually blind to what's an impediment to living as a son. It's a slow process to eliminate the corrupting influences, but it's essential that they go, one by one, so we can continue to grow and mature spiritually.

Father's instruction today concerns speaking out our dissatisfactions:

“Expressing your dissatisfaction does absolutely no good to you or anybody around you. But when you convey hope and love it will benefit everyone. Set your heart to live and walk in the Spirit, and the fruit will be evident.”<sup>7</sup>

We've already been shown not to give in to regrets and disappointments<sup>8</sup> because of its negative effects on ourselves, but we've probably not thought about its effects on others.

An important message for all of us, because we have a great propensity to whinge and whine very easily.

Laurence
