

Father's Love Gives Us Protection

Love protects us. We know that from parenting where children are protected by their parents, because they're loved by them. For the children, they know they are protected, but many times they don't think they're loved. The protection is always there, but the child looks for love from a selfish perspective – it must measure up to the way they want it to. In this case, love is seen by them as something they take.

We can have the same childish desire for Father's love, where we want what we want. Love is seen as something we take, from that perspective. It's highly beneficial for us then, that Father has more love to give us that we can utilize.

However, that's not the point here. Father wants a love relationship with us, an intimate one, where we give ourselves to each other, just like a good marriage relationship. He wants it to go deeper into oneness, again, like a good marriage relationship. In that place of intimacy and oneness, we share love with each other. It's one-sided, but it's the right sort of love relationship, because he knows we're only capable of limited loving.

This love of his, then, is not because he loved his creation so much that he gave his Son as a sacrifice to redeem it. No. It's a present-day relationship where we're each other's beloved. There's a 'world of difference' there. The love in this situation sustains us by providing all the love and emotional support we'll ever need – provided we draw it from him.

On top of that, his love provides protection for us, just like a child who is protected by their parents. However, there's another level of protection that Father provides. That's the protection inside his love from the hassles and problems of life, as well as the constant attacks that come against us. This is the love protection many of us don't tap into, so we suffer through every issue, instead of being victorious because we relax and let him lead us and deal with them all for us.

We must learn to live out of this love protection as the times become darker.¹ Here's what Father has to say about it:

“Don't let appearances deceive you—my love will win every struggle that you face. Even this day, I have prepared a hiding place of mercy for you.

I want to give you a faith that is limitless—a faith that can come only from me. Let me flood you with love so magnificent and fulfilling that you never question it again. My love will wash away the discontentment you've experienced in this world. It will set you upon a foundation that cannot be ravaged by storms. If you walk in my ways, the higher ways of heaven, I will help you interpret situations rightly and give you the wisdom you need to navigate every situation. Tap into my eternal ways and allow me to satisfy the yearning of your soul.”²

In that vein, Father said the following to me:

“There will be times ahead where you'll want to give up. Please see these as a normal human reaction and don't 'beat yourself up' about it. You're too hard on yourself and you know it. Trust me to take you where I want you to go and to become [who I want you to become]. I know you say to me on a regular basis that that's your desire, but as the pressure builds, it will become harder for you [not to give up]. That's where our love relationship and your tenacity will see you through every 'hiccup' that materializes.”³

He later called me to experience his love so deeply that it would be tangible for me. His purpose was to give me an armour of love (like an armoured troop carrier) which I could move into and be carried along when testing attacks heighten. He said:

*“I know you experience my love and bask in it every day. However, the time is coming when this also will be tested. Know my love deeply and live in it. Feel it tangibly and let it soak into your being – every fibre of your being.”*⁴

We all need to be in this place of protection. We just need to practise intimacy and drawing everything from him to get there.
