

No Disgrace

Shame and disgrace are two things that people produce in others and which the enemy is very happy to fuel. They both neutralize a person, and they're effective in the way they help him perpetuate disconnected societies through broken relationships and unhealed marriages.

For those who have submitted to shame and disgrace, the good news is that Father isn't concerned about your past. He's already forgiven everyone through the work of the Cross. On top of that, his unconditional love says, "The past is gone.¹ I see you as the potential person you were created to be, not who you think you are right now because of the mess you've made of your life."²

To encourage you to 'dump' shame and disgrace, read the following thoughts on the topic from Brian Simmons:

'Jesus rolls away our disgrace with the covenant of his strong love. He washes over the pain of our past with the liquid mercy of his blood. The shame of our youth is not held against us, and the power of his love sets us free to venture into what he has for us in the great expanse of his glorious kingdom.

There is now no accusing voice of condemnation against those of us... We have been liberated from our captivity, and we are free..."³

Let that sink in.

Now spend your early mornings in Father's presence, with your mind and attitude changed, and let him 'love on you' until the scars of shame and disgrace are all gone.
