

Only You Can Make a Difference in the Outcomes of Your Life

In our Western society today, people look to find who's to blame when things go wrong, by looking outside of themselves. It's always someone else's fault, not theirs. Governments of all types are guilty of the same ploy, and sadly, the populace believes their story.

Why can't we all take responsibility for ourselves, at all times and in every situation?

I'm unsure if this is a perennial, historic problem with humanity, or whether it's a modern thing that goes along with our litigious mindset. Whatever, the history of it, blaming others as the first instinctive response, is what's present today, and it's destroying people's lives, as well as their families and their relationships.

Father's sons are meant to be fully responsible for themselves. That will be a shock to most of my readers, but that's because they are ignorant of spiritual reality that relates to our created status and our roles in the Kingdom on Earth.¹ We were made to govern the planet as an 'outpost' of Heaven, not live our lives as we see fit and then get the most out of it for ourselves. We were given huge responsibility to be accountable to the Trinity for how we function to see their plans unfold on the ground. That's a mega responsibility, so being responsible for ourselves (not because we'll get in trouble if we falter) is minuscule in comparison.

So, am I 'waffling on' or are sons actually responsible for everything in their own lives?

Let's check the ultimate source for an answer to that question:

*"You are about to turn the page in your personal history. The old things are behind you as you step into the new. Press on with the assurance that I am with you," says the Lord. "You will choose every step of the way to either face new challenges with faith and hope or grumble your way to despair. Choose wisely; only you can make a difference in the outcome."*²

Yes, we are responsible for the outcomes that eventuate in our lives. However, we're responsible to also make our own decisions, and that's in co-ordination with the Trinity.³

So, what's the takeaway from this information?

It's simple:

1. Take responsibility for all your thoughts, speech and actions.
2. Stop expecting 'God'⁴ to do everything for you, and blaming him when it doesn't turn out well.
3. Stop trying to twist 'God's' arm to do things for you by praying for you desires to manifest.
4. Realise that you're in a partnership with the King in everything you do.
5. Learn to make wise decisions.
6. Give preference to checking the source of all wisdom and knowledge (The Truth himself) for instructions, rather than asking a person that you know.

4 – 'God': I use this term in inverted commas because 'God' is the generic term people use, while I don't any more. I have an intimate relationship with the members of the Trinity, so I refer to each of them by name, out of relationship. From my oneness with them, I collectively refer to them as The Trinity.

7. Think things through before you move into action.
8. Don't be impulsive, following your emotions.
9. Cease being anxious in all situations and circumstances.
10. Never do anything out of anger or frustration.
11. Never say anything out of anger or frustration.
12. Develop an intimate relationship with Father, or the King, so you have their mind on things.
13. Seek them for wisdom for all of life.
14. Ask for wisdom in a situation rather than blindly doing whatever comes into your head.
15. Wait before acting, checking your spirit to see what the Spirit is wanting to say in every situation.

Remember: It's all up to you.
