

Perfect Unity Produces Perfect Freedom

Want to know how to enter into the freedom that Paul wrote about, the freedom that belongs to sons? It's not in works, where you try to be free. It's not by operating in anarchy against the society in which you live. It's definitely not found in religion, so where is it and how do we access it?

Here's Father's instructions on that question, so we do it properly and can then have access to genuine freedom:

“To be truly free is to live in perfect unity with me and reliance upon me. It comes from a lifestyle of submission. This isn't submission that stems from duty and obligation, but a true yielding of every aspect of your body, soul, and spirit, out of love. Love beckons you to lay everything at my feet. Every action, each thought, every desire is surrendered to me, the One who loves you perfectly.

When you live in submission to me, seeking my will and desiring to be fully surrendered, nothing can hijack your peace. This doesn't mean you don't experience trials, but it does mean trials no longer have a right to torment you. They don't become bigger than the knowledge of my love and power. So be free in me. Let go of the pressure to make things happen on your own, and simply live in total trust. Freedom enables you to see clearly, because you act only on my instruction, joyously abandoned to my will. This is the freedom I've called you to. And it releases peace that surpasses all understanding.”<sup>1</sup>

There you have it: It comes with being in perfect unity with Father and totally relying on him.

Simple & easy.

Easy, because he does everything – there's no striving to achieve anything or to do anything on our part.
