

Perilous Times Require a Listening Ear

Father has been preparing us for quite a while for what's coming, so that we're prepared. His instructions have come to Canberra Forerunners members and many others via CCOP messages, my messages, and my teaching articles, as well as through what I share. All these are still available for the discerning person to look up and read on my website.

Recent messages from Father and our King have been more urgent, as prophetic messages from other sources have dried up or been of little use. Critically, he's impressed on us the following:

1. Listen to what he's saying to you NOW.
2. Align ourselves with his heart, mind and plans.
3. Live out of the Internal Kingdom in intimacy and oneness with him.
4. Rely only on them for all our needs, including our personal needs.

If we are wise, we'll keep listening to what they have to say (24/7) and then follow their instructions.

Here's a recent one of those specific instructions:

*"You are living in perilous times that will require a listening ear and a heart of obedience to do my will," says the Lord. "There is much to be done, and some of the things I require might seem unreasonable or even bizarre, but I need you to trust me completely without wavering."*¹

If our King thinks that listening to what he's saying to us and complying with what is important to him, then we should be doing just that.
