

The Reintegration of Our Soul

Like the erroneous teaching in some Christian circles that life on Earth is evil, there is another erroneous teaching that the soul is also evil. Both these are based on religion, and although they may be backed by scripture, they don't line up with reality.

The Creator created life on Earth in the natural, so it cannot be evil. Any evil in life is a consequence of The Fall, the enemy's activity and our choice to live the way we do. Those are the realities (i.e. what is true about our natural life)

Similarly, the Creator created our soul for us to connect with the natural realm that he created and placed us in. Our soul cannot be inherently evil, it's only what we allow our soul to do that can be evil.

I say "can", because not everything the soul does is evil – far from it. For example, it's not evil to desire to:

- eat breakfast,
- have a job,
- apply for promotion,
- have children,
- etc.

None of those are evil, and neither are many, many more. What's evil is what our soul desires us to do that is evil.

Mostly our souliness is unrighteous, rather than what we would class as evil. Unrighteous refers to being 'not right in Father's eyes'. Everything he does or thinks is righteous, so when we think like him, with his heart, and do what he approves, then we are being righteous. Righteousness has nothing to do with religion, the Law, legalism, The Ten Commandments, or anything other than the heart and mind of Father.

Jesus of Nazareth was always righteous, because he only did what he saw Father doing and he only spoke what he heard Father saying. He only did the "will of Father", so he was never acting or speaking unrighteously.

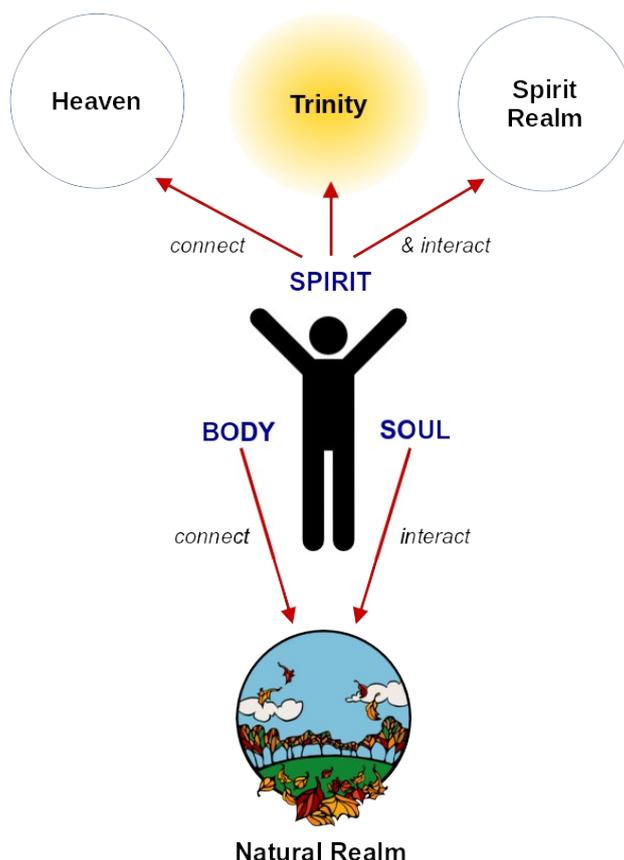

What's righteous, also, has nothing to do with a set of do's-&-don'ts, although there are some things that we should do and some we shouldn't. Complying with any set of rules is what legalism is. Interestingly, any form of legalism negates Father's right to have us not say something or not do something, even though they may be righteous. When we rebel against him and do them, or say them, we are being unrighteous because we're not doing what he wants. Compliance with his desires is what should be paramount to us, not obedience to rules, laws or regulations.

How can that be? Simply put, legalism can't see how unrighteousness really works, but having Father's heart and mind sees it as perfect sense. The reason is that unrighteousness is actually being out of alignment with him. When he doesn't want us to do or say something, and we do, we are out of alignment with him, and that makes our action unrighteous.

See the difference between religion's and legalism's concept to righteousness and the reality of righteousness in the Kingdom?

That all means that our soul is only unrighteous when it wants us to do things which are out of alignment with Father in any way. Our soul is not inherently evil because we were created with a body, soul and spirit.

Adam would have operated perfectly with the three components of his being. They were created as integrated components which worked in harmony – but that was before The Fall. Here’s how that would have looked:

Since The Fall, our three components have been corrupted and so need to be renewed and/or realigned/retrained/reprogrammed, as the case may be. We need to get back to our created functionality so our 3 components work in harmony, and that’s through the process of reintegration.

We know our spirit is regenerated (“reborn”) when we come into the Kingdom. That’s done automatically by Holy Spirit, so it’s taken care of. However our body, soul, heart and mind need our involvement for them to be renewed. These components are the areas where we have issues because the natural realm, the world system and the enemy interact with them and affect them.

Our mind is renewed as we let it be deprogrammed and reprogrammed by our King. This requires our permission and our submission to the process for renewal to take place. It’s only when that process is fully complete that we can have ‘the mind of the King’<sup>1</sup>. That process takes quite a while, especially if we’ve been involved in religion, or heavily controlled by the world system. All the ‘junk’ knowledge needs to be replaced by spiritual reality (genuine Kingdom knowledge + genuine spiritual knowledge) for us to be able to think without any duplicity or conflict.<sup>2</sup>

Our heart is changed in a similar process to our mind. We must completely submit to the King’s training for this to happen. That’s usually through what’s known as ‘molding<sup>3</sup> and shaping’, where he shows us through testing and experience the ‘rubbish’ in our heart. This unwanted content is usually ‘bad’ or wrong attitudes which have come from life’s training (especially at home and school), and from woundedness, hurts and offences.<sup>4</sup>

The body as we know, is finally regenerated after death or in the ‘next Age’ (if we transfer straight there). This new body is known as the “resurrected body”, after the one that Jesus exhibited following his resurrection, when he appeared to his disciples.

Interestingly, some believers have had experiences of meeting with ‘ageless ones’ who are believers who are centuries old. They haven’t died because they adhere to Jesus’ action of defeating death, so they refuse to surrender to death. Do these people have a regenerated body? We don’t know, because visitations with them are rare and we have no verifiable record of an interview with one of them.

In regard to the soul, the problem is defining what it really is,<sup>5</sup> especially if the Bible is the source of the knowledge used.<sup>6</sup> Some say it’s the mind, will and emotions. One could say that it’s everything other than the body and the spirit. But, is our mind part of our brain (body) or our soul? Whatever it is, the soul appears scientifically to enter our body at the time of the fertilization of the ova that produced us.<sup>7</sup>

How do we regenerate our soul then?

In the past, believers have tried various treatments to deal with their soul. Such as:

- Dying to self
- Self-flagellation
- Penance
- Confessing to others
- Killing the ‘flesh’
- Monastic life, etc.

Those are all religious activities, but the solution is the Kingdom way (i.e. Father’s way). The remainder of this teaching article covers that subject.

NOTE: The flesh needs to be handled properly, but first off, we need to know what the ‘flesh’ is, before we can achieve that.<sup>8</sup> Simply put, our ‘flesh’ is us walking independently of Father, so our soul is in alignment with that independence (i.e. in rebellion, doing what we want).

The right way to bring the soul into alignment to where Father wants it has only been made commonly known in recent times as believers have started asking him questions to get his mind on things, rather than listening to pulpit teaching. Also in recent times, Father has been schooling many in Heaven about what they need to know, as well as showing them the errors they believe.

In regard to the soul, the first step to seeing it renewed is to understand it’s role. For that, I have produced the diagram on page 2. The soul is an essential part of our being, created to allow us to interact with the natural realm through our senses, mind and emotions. Those components are all righteous – none are evil in themselves. Evil (unrighteousness) only occurs when we choose to use them unrighteously. However, unrighteous use of our soul occurs every time we use it out of alignment with Father, and that’s all too often.

Let’s get a better idea of how we can renew our soul from what others have learnt.<sup>9</sup>

9 – The following points are based on Mike Parsons teaching “Soul Wholeness and the Flesh” youtu.be/75p19JdZtWc

- Our soul was created to be in alignment with our body and spirit so that we are whole (i.e. complete in how we function).
- When we surrender our soul's independence, our body, soul and spirit can be re-integrated, and we can come back into alignment to where Father wants us to be. At that point we can enter into our governmental role as sons because we are fully in alignment with Father.
- Our task is to get our soul to the point where it ceases to operate independently. That's difficult because, in the past, it has been allowed to protect itself, provide for what it needed and to determine what it did. By that I mean, it's the actions that we take to satisfy our body and soul. Those actions are the very ones that we need to shift so that we trust Father for them. That's where the independence has been all along for us.
- We've learnt in the past to allow our soul to determine what we do from external stimuli (stimulus<sup>10</sup>). This has dictated how we frame our thinking, and our thinking then determined how we lived. That needs to change.
- When Father challenges our thinking, so that our thinking is renewed, that's the point where our soul and spirit come together in oneness (they integrate), because we don't think independently of him.
- We need to get to the point where there's no separation between our spirit, soul and body. This is the perfect place to be so that we are back where Adam was at creation. Unfortunately, it's difficult to maintain that perfect unity, as we stray in our thinking and we allow our soul to rule us on occasions. This is the struggle we all have to handle, as integration is the place where we can move rapidly in our spiritual maturity and our engagement with Heaven and the spirit realm.
- Getting to the point of integration is a process that Father takes us through. We must allow him to take us on the journey of processes so we can get to where he wants us, as quickly as we can.<sup>11</sup> In that regard, it's important to understand that it's a process, not an event, that sees us get to full integration.
- At the point of actual re-integration, the ties that the soul has with the spirit (i.e. from the soul to the spirit) are severed and then reconnected so that it's from the spirit to the soul. That's when everything flows from the inside out, not from the outside in, as it does naturally. This is the point where we are able to fully live in the spirit, living the life of the King, from our internal Kingdom.
- It's not an easy process to get there, because the soul trusts its own ability to protect its self-operation. From experience, our soul trusts that it knows what to do, because it doesn't know how to trust Father.
- Religion, church, education, life experiences, etc. have brought our soul to the point where it can't trust Father. That's because our thinking (our mind) is a component of our soul. The chief hindrances to trusting Father are OC teaching ('angry God' mindset) and awful life experiences where we've blamed him for not preventing 'bad' things happening. This is why we need our thinking deconstructed and renewed by him so we can align with him freely, without reservation, because we really know who he is and how he functions towards us. It's critical to get to that state by knowing that he's unconditional love and limitless grace, and where we enjoy him and our life together with him. That's when life flows out of Heaven and fills us every day, and we live in love, joy, peace and rest.
- While ever our soul is fighting to maintain control of our person, we'll never get to live the life that's available to us. That fight happens when we allow our soul to determine what we think, do and say, rather than Father and what he's told us. This resistance (rebellion) is what the 'flesh' wrestling with the spirit for control is really all about.
- Once in full integration, we're not limited to the natural realm. We can operate like Adam was able to and we can live multi-dimensionally and live in different realms simultaneously. This is when we can inhabit Heaven with our spirit and live on Earth at the same time. It's also when we can investigate other dimensions<sup>12</sup> where there are different beings.<sup>13</sup> These have been unavailable to us while we've been 'tethered' to the Earth (the natural realm) by our soul.

- We need to get to the point where we fully surrender to Father, one that's complete and utter. Otherwise, full integration cannot take place.
- We all have to go on our own journey to integration. No journey is the same, as we're all different in personality, temperament and wilfulness<sup>14</sup>.
- We don't know what will take us to the point of full integration, but embracing Father's processes with joy and anticipation is the fastest way to get there. Never fight his processes as it will hinder your arrival.

❁ WATCH: Mike Parsons "Soul Wholeness and the Flesh" youtu.be/75pI9JdZtWc ❁

What am I doing to move towards integration?

- I allow Father to change my heart and it's attitudes, and fill me with his love, grace mercy and compassion. That's retraining it to be in alignment with him.
- I keep monitoring my thoughts and my speech, so I can reject and renounce anything that's unrighteous. That's retraining it to be in alignment with him.
- I continually bring my mind into subjection to my spirit. That's training it to get ready for integration
- I continue to allow Holy Spirit to work with me to bring my body and soul into subjection to my spirit, so I'm fully subject to him. That's training them to get ready for integration

I'm the 'point of weakness' in having integration take place, so it's all up to me to stop putting blockages in the way. Fear, anxiousness and stress are all indicators that I'm still tethered to the natural realm. They indicate that I want to do things using my natural abilities, but that I'm unable to. They show that I'm not fully surrendered to Father, because I'm not totally trusting him with my life's situations and circumstances.

The questions for me at the moment are, "Am I tethered to the Earth too much because I've learnt to love life here?" and "Will that delay my reintegration?" It took me many years to get past my childhood training in the Methodist church that life was evil and that I was destined to live in Heaven, not here. That was all bunkum, but it was ingrained in me for over 60 years. I'm free of that error now,<sup>15</sup> but I need to balance living life created for humans and living life as a son of God is expected (planned) to live.
