- ★ “Why the Establishment is Consistently Shocked by Anti-Establishment Victories”

“Anti-establishment politicians are on the rise. We see this with the Argentine elections, which have a new surprise front-runner. Javier Milei won a primary just a few nights ago, garnering 30% of the vote. Running on a platform of dollarizing the nation’s economy, eliminating the central bank, and shrinking the size of the government in order to fix the economy, he has found massive support amongst citizens that are fed up with the country’s status-quo. Milei draws comparisons to President Trump. His message to Argentina is very similar to the one Trump gave to the US before he won in 2016. A populist, anti-establishment message that the young people in Argentina, particularly, are responding to. And among his first moves if he’s elected President, is to ditch the local federal reserve, and bring in the US dollar. This, paired with the election of a candidate with similarities in Italy, Giorgia Meloni, seems to show a trend of citizens around the world growing increasingly more anti-establishment.”

- “The Sinister Theory Behind the Q in LGBTQ”

“Conservatives have zeroed in on the T in LGBTQ as part of the ongoing culture war. But many may not realize the Q from the acronym stands for an even more extreme theory that defends pedophilia, incest, and bestiality, and advocates for a complete destruction of traditional sexual norms. Q, which stands for queer, is rooted in queer theory, a sexuality ideology that began gaining popularity in the 1970s. Many philosophical founders and perpetrators of the theory have argued in favor of normalizing pedophilia and worse.”

- “A Medical Scandal as Horrific as Lobotomies: Dr. Miriam Grossman on ‘Gender-Affirming Care’ and What Parents Must Know

“These kids that are going through gender-affirming care, they become lifelong patients. They become lifelong consumers of pharmaceuticals,” says Dr. Miriam Grossman. She is a child and adolescent psychiatrist and author of “Lost in Trans Nation: A Child Psychiatrist’s Guide Out of the Madness.” In this episode, Dr. Grossman breaks down what’s causing the sharp rise in teenagers saying they’re transgender, what every parent needs to know about so-called “gender-affirming care,” and a series of steps parents can take at home and at school to protect their children. “What you want to do is put the school on notice, even if your child is only entering kindergarten. You want the school to know that you do not want your child exposed to gender ideology... You do not give your permission for your child to meet with the guidance counselor without your knowledge or with any other third party without your knowledge. And you certainly do not give permission to the school to socially transition your child,” Dr. Grossman says.”

- “How the Gender Industry Has Parasitized People’s Emotions”

“Alasdair Gunn, also known by his pen name Angus Fox, is a vice-director at Genspect, an organization seeking to broaden the treatment options available for people questioning their gender—beyond “gender-affirming care.” Mr. Gunn helped inspire parents to share their stories in the new book, “Parents with Inconvenient Truths about Trans: Tales from the Home Front in the Fight to Save Our Kids.” The gender industry has “parasitized people’s emotions,” Mr. Gunn argues. “And it’s managed to remain as though it’s some very respectable normal field of medicine, as though it’s knee replacement or orthodontics or something, and it’s not.””

- “Transgender Policies Put Doctors and Patients at Risk, Says Medical Group”

“Today, some people who identify as transgender expect their doctors to pick up on unspoken facts such as that sometimes “men” complaining of stomach pain are actually women who identify as men. For doctors to be oblivious to—or ignore—basic human biology, such as the differences between male and female, already has caused great harm, including death, according to Dr. Jeffrey Barrows, senior vice president of bioethics and public policy for the Christian Medical and Dental Associations.”
