Where Have You Placed Yourself?

During our lifetime, we find ourselves placed in various locations, jobs and vocations primarily because we've made personal choices. Is it proper, then, for sons to make personal decisions about their placement?

Sons making choices for themselves is not wrong,[1] it's actually a function of our high status[2] in the spirit realm, where we're planet-managers who are responsible for the governance of Earth.[3] That 'flies in the face'[4] of the teaching we receive which says we must always follow the Spirit. So where's the balance for us in making decisions in regard to where we're placed during our life?

The most important process to decision-making is to get Father's advice and wisdom. We do that by listening with our spirit 24/7 so we don't miss the information he's wanting to provide to us. This listening is not done out of requirement, duty or religious pressure, but because we're in a love-relationship with Father and we want to be about his business every day.

When we don't get a download from the Spirit before or while we're wanting to make the decision about changing our situation, we can just ask Father a question or two and get his response on the matter at hand. If we get no wisdom or direction, we're left with two options: (1) don't do anything; or (2) make a decision ourselves based on our knowledge, what Father has spoken to us already, and from our life experiences.

The wonderful thing about all this decision-making is that if we make a mistake, Father isn't angry with us. He never gets angry – that's inconsistent with his unconditional love, endless mercy and magnanimous grace. Any negativity or condemnation we feel is actually a product of our soulishness and our 'bad' theology. That's why we need Father to deprogram our thinking and deconstruct our foundations. Only then are we clear to think his thoughts.

The best place to be is where Father puts us – that's my experience in life. That has to be the best because he always looks out for our welfare. The only proviso to Father's goodness is that he will test us with difficulties, for various reasons, and that may require putting us in an awkward or not-so-perfect place. Under those conditions, he's looking to see how we trust him and how we deal with it.

He provided some information on this topic recently:

> ""When you find that you are in a place where you do not belong, make a quick exit. You only belong where I put you," says the Lord. "It is imperative that you follow my leading without distractions. When in doubt, don't!""[5]

IMPORTANT: Don't read into what he stated with your own interpretation of the words that he used. He uses us to spread his messages and we use words that others may place a different meaning or emphasis on.

Let's analyze the content of his message:

- "When you find that you are in a place where you do not belong, make a quick exit" – This is not referring to a longer-term placement, such as finding ourself unemployed or in a work position where the job description has been changed. Father is referring to moving into a place that we know that we don't belong, such as in the company of negative people or in a dubious establishment. However, it's judicious to check with Father before exiting as he may have us there for a reason. Remember, Jesus ate with 'sinners', something the Jeωish mind found abhorrent.

- "You only belong where I put you" – This is true, but we might not like being where we find ourselves. Our negativity about our placement is not the Spirit telling us we're not where we're supposed to be. To check, we should always monitor our spirit when we're in a different place, to see what we sense. Never follow our soul, and our mind can also be in error.
- "It is imperative that you follow my leading without distractions" – This is true, but 'imperative' doesn't mean that being out-of-place with his plan requires us to make drastic moves. Father can bring good out of anything we do that is out of alignment with his plans. That attitude should be our default posture[6] when we find ourselves dislocated or misplaced.
- "When in doubt, don't!" – This doubt should not be fear-based. It's knowing that we know that we know we've made a poor decision. It's a discernment which needs practise to fine-tune, not a panic move. When we have doubts, the best plan is to talk to Father about it and wait for his response in our spirit.

Be Aware: Father doesn't always speak about where we should place ourselves. He may bring options to us – that's my experience. He may construct our circumstances so our placement is obvious – that's also my experience. He may also use others to open doors.

IMPORTANT: Always ask him to open and close doors for you. In that way you're giving him permission to work on your life for his purposes, not yours.
