

You've Not Been Given Anything You Can't Effectively Handle

Because of our 'slackness', we object to the situations and circumstances we find ourselves in each day. Instead of completely trusting Father to walk us through each day and through every issue, we become negative and complain to him about it – as well as complaining to others.

The reality is that Father never takes us anywhere, or has us do anything, that he hasn't prepared us the handle. Now, that might be news to you, but that's how he operates lovingly as he trains us to become the person he wants us to become.

Here's his statement on that:

“When you lose hope or do not know how to proceed, quiet your soul and come into a place of rest in Me. I will give you wisdom and the courage you need to find your way. Things may seem unfamiliar and daunting, but you have not been given anything you cannot effectively handle. Trust Me,” says the Lord.”¹

Time for a rethink?
